CHAMBERLAIN SAYS ALLIES QUIT CENTRAL NORWAY; WARNS ITALY

SEWAGE PLANT ASSURED FOR S. BOULEVARDS

Government Agrees to Give $81,685 to Pave Way For $109,000 Plant.

OBJECTIVE REALIZED

District, Incorporated So It Could Get System, Finally Achieves Goal.

The new village of South Boulevards today was assured of a sewage disposal plant—the objective of the suburban district south of Mansfield when it incorporated more than a year ago

A federal grant for $81,685 was approved by President Roosevelt to supplement a $27,000 bond issue for financing the project under the WPA program, Mayor E C. Flory said The total cost of the project will be about $109 000

The community voted the bond issue last November and then submitted a request for WPA money. It was estimated that the project will provide jobs for about 130 men for 10 months.

The number of workers may be increased, however, since Mayor Flory said village officials hoped to have the work completed by next winter.

Negotiate for Site.

Kenneth P. Shaffer, engineer for the project, said it was doubtful if actual work will be started before Aug 1. Village officials are negotiating for a site for the disposal plant near the southern edge of the residential community.

Project plans call for construction of sewage lines and a modern plant, solving a problem that has puzzled residents of the community for several years.

The district incorporated to be eligible for a federal grant after the city of Mansfield turned down a request for annexation to the city.

A county road project ready to get under way when the weather is favorable, will provide WPA employment for about 200 men until the South Boulevards work begins.

County Engineer Howard S. Sword said that about 18 miles of roads in all sections of the county will be resurfaced with bituminous materials under the project which is expected to be finished in July.

A small crew of WPA workers is doing preliminary work now on the Mt. Zion and Possum Run roads south of Mansfield. The county engineer said actual resurfacing will begin as soon as the weather gets warmer.

Weather Hampers Leg Workers In Fund Campaign

Leg workers in the Community Fund drive—the men and women who do their contact work on foot — were considerably hampered today by the weather, but many kept persistently at it in order to make a good report tomorrow noon.

There will be no report meeting today, and although a few reports were being made at Community Fund headquarters, no figures will be available until tomorrow noon when leaders meet at the Evergreens.

Yesterday's report, the second one of the drive which opened Monday, brought the total pledges and contributions up to $30,500, which leaves $7,171 to be raised today, Friday and Saturday if the drive is to end successfully Saturday night.

Clyde K. Smaltz, general chairman of the campaign, said yesterday that this sum must come from the up-town workers since industry has already given more than 60 per cent of the total budget of $57,500 Smaltz said today that while the weather may delay a few workers, he was certain the full amount of the Fund will be subscribed by Saturday noon

ASHLANDER, 29, MISSING; WAS IN MANSFIELD

Police Chief Believes Agent Was Amnesia Victim or Met With Foul Play.

ASHLAND—Police here today were investigating the mysterious disappearance of Murray Ricker, 29 Ashland insurance agent, last seen three days ago in Mansfield

Acting Police Chief Miles D McCarty expresed the opinion that Ricker was the victim of amnesia while in Mansfield or had met with foul play.

Mansfield police have not been requested to aid in the investigation, authorities there said.

Mrs Ricker told police that her husband had come home Monday morning and told her that he had to go to Mansfield on business and would not get home in time for supper that evening That was the last she heard or saw of him, she said

Acting Chief McCarty said he had traced Rickert's movements to Mansfield and learned that the man had conducted his business and had stopped into a business place at 12:15 p. m. At that place he said that he was in a hurry to get back home.

There is no trace of him after that time McCarty said. Police said they found that Ricker lived a normal, happy home life, that Mrs. Ricker was expecting a child and that the man's business affairs were in good condition He had no bad habits and no enemies, McCarty said today

SENT TO PRISON

Indiana Men, Involved in Gun Battle Here, Sentenced.

Two former Indiana convicts captured west of Mansfield two weeks ago after a 20-mile chase and a gun battle with officers were sentenced to one to 20 years in the Ohio penitentiary late yesterday after they pleaded guilty to indictments for shooting with intent to kill

Sentenced by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston were Roy Taylor, 32, Niles, Mich., and Stephen Janas, 28, of Burnham, Ill., indicted last week by the county grand jury.

The men pleaded innocent when arraigned several days ago, but changed their pleas on the advice of their counsel, Atty. Ward Swalwell of Chicago

Taylor and Janas, who admitted they were driving a stolen car, were taken into custody the night of April 18 by State Highway Patrolman W. C. Smith and Deputy Sheriff J R. Hetler after they gave the officers a chase and gun battle.

NEW FEAR OF WAR'S SPREAD HITS RUMANIA

Carol's Country Caught Amid Conflicting Ambitions of Rival Nations.

DANGER IN MEDITERRANEAN

French Overture to Mussolini Now Regarded as Final Peaceful Gesture.

By EDWARD W. BEATTIE, JR.

BUCHAREST, Rumania—A new rush of war rumors plunged King Carol's capitol into gloom today.

The most persistent of them indicated that a show-down was at hand in the Mediterranean that was bound to have violent repercussions in the Balkans, and that Rumania had been warned that German action against her was impending.

Rumanians returning to the capital after the five-day (Orthodox) Easter holiday found rumors circulating that Great Britain's order to her merchant ships to stay out of the Mediterranean was a prelude to closing that sea to all ships, that Turkish troops were moving along the mainland opposite the Italian-owned Dodecanese islands, whose naval and air bases dominate the Aegean sea

Secret Trip.

They heard reports that King Carol had gone secretly to the Jugoslav border during the weekend for an important conference with Prince Paul, regent of Jugoslavia, and that while the king was gone, the government was warned of impending German action. It was not explained whether this warning referred to invasion

STARTS HOUSE NUMBERING JOB

Bolesky Authorized by Council to Carry Out Plan For Correcting Nuisance.

A one-man "blitzkrieg" against Mansfield's haphazard house numbering system was being conducted today by George L. Bolesky former city councilman.

Authorized by council, Bolesky, single-handed, tackled the job of straightening out the house markings that have befuddled strangers as well as natives for more than a decade.

Armed with a survey made last year which shows the discrepancies in the numbers, the former city official was personally notifying all property owners whose structures are incorrectly numbered.

Already through with the Second ward, which had the least incorrect numbers of any of the six wards, Bolesky today started his campaign in the Fifth ward. He expects to cover the entire city in the next 60 days.

Bolesky, who strongly advocated

'My Work Was My Hobby,' Says Railroader On Retiring At 67

With the thoughts in mind "my work was always my hobby" and "I enjoyed it as much the last day as I did the first," A. E. Swain, 67, of 151 Vennum avenue, lounged back in his chair yesterday and started to take life easy. He was retiring voluntarily after 47 years and 2 months steady work as a railroader.

Born in Ashland county and going to work for the Pennsylvania railroad at the age of 19 as a trackman, Swain was promoted to track foreman in 1899 and two years later became track supervisor. In 1932 he was made general foreman of the Mansfield yards. A position he held until his retirement yesterday.

During his 47-years service with the Pennsylvania, Swain was supervisor of the Walhonding branch from Loudonville to Coshocton, the Lorain, Ashland and Southern Line with headquarters at Ashland, the Wheeling division and the division with headquarters at Rochester, Pa.

Swain is of the opinion that "the railroad is a necessity of the government." He says "The development of the railroads was of constant interest and created constant thrills as I watched, the new and more efficient railroad equip-

Admits German Power Superior At Trondheim

Premier Predicts Hitler Will Next Attack In Southeastern Europe As He Admits Set-Back For Allies In Commons Speech.

BULLETIN

ROME—(AP)—The announcement that a British and French battle fleet was in the Mediterranean today revived tension which earlier had been relieved by Italian disclaimers of any intentions of going to war immediately.

(By United Press)

LONDON—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told the house of commons today that the battered Allied expeditionary force had withdrawn from central Norway and he warned Italy that the British and French battlefleet was prepared for any eventuality in the Mediterranean.

The withdrawal of British and French troops from the Norwegian landing base at Andalsnes in the face of a hammering German offensive through the mountains meant the end of the expeditionary operations as a major factor south of Trondheim but Chamberlain promised that the fight would go on with greater power north of Trondheim.

"We have no intention of permitting Norway to become a sideshow," he said, after asserting that the Allied troops were withdrawn without loss "under the noses" of the German air fleet.

The prime minister, facing an angry parliament as a result of reverses in Scandinavia, said that:

1. The German superiority of land and artillery as well as air strength in central Norway had made it necessary for the Allies to abandon hope of capturing the vital port of Trondheim from the south and thus the main fighting front in Scandinavia was shifted to the Steinkjer sector north of Trondheim.

2 The advantage in the long run, "I am satisfied," lies with the Allies in Norway.

3 Germany's next attack may come in southeastern Europe.

4. The British and French battlefleet already is in the eastern basin of the Mediterranean (where it would be most effective if Italy joined the war on Germany's side) and is en route to Alexandria.

5. Adolf Hitler may even attempt a lightning "swoop" against the British Isles in an effort to

PETITION CITY FOR 'SICK PAY'

17 Employes of Waterworks Sign Request Filed With Council.

Municipal waterworks employes today confronted city officials with a new problem.

A petition bearing the signatures of 17 department employes including those in the office, was filed with council, requesting legislation to entitle them to pay when disabled

It was also learned that a similar petition was being circulated among civil service employes in the street department and would be given to city officials within the next few days.

From a waterworks employe who would not permit the use of his name it was learned that civil service employes had made the request because no set rule had been established for paying workers for time off during illness.

He cited police and firemen, who make up about half of the city's civil service group, pointing out that they were paid for days off when ill and could obtain a three months leave of absence with pay on approval of application by the civil service commission.

It was also pointed out that employes of the water department

SNOWFLAKES HIT SPRING FLOWERS

Thermometer Skids, But There's Hope For Warmer Weather.

While Mansfielders buttoned up their top coats this morning, the first few spring flowers looked apprehensive as the thermometers slid down to near freezing again, and snow pelted them for awhile.

Rain this morning turned into snow which melted as fast as it fell Yesterday's low temperature of 34 rose one point this morning and the official thermometer registered 37 at noon.

Cloudy skies with occasional light rains is forecast for tonight and possibly tomorrow. Slightly warmer weather can be expected tomorrow, however.

Girl Among 10 Selected To Take Flight Training Here

(Pictures on Page 10)

The sound of whirling propellors and the roar of powerful airplane motors at Municipal airport next week will signal the inauguration of flight training for 10 students selected from a class of 39 candidates to participate in the Civil Aeronautics Authority's civilian pilot training program in Mansfield

The ten students, including a lone girl, were named last night at a dinner meeting of the Richland county chapter of the National Aeronautical association, sponsors of the program here.

They were the top ranking students in examinations held a week ago at completion of a three-month ground school course. Test papers graded and approved by the CAA were returned here and the announcement made last night.

Flight instructions will be given them after they pass a physical examination conducted by the district CAA medical examiner, Dr M. D. Shilling of Ashland.

Along with the 10 high ranking students, five alternates, including a girl, were named from the next highest on the list. Twenty-four others who completed the ground school course and passed the tests with a grade of 70 or better were

AIM OF YOUTH BAND RELATED BY STOKOWSKI

Orchestra Has Three-fold Purpose Says Veteran Baton Wielder.

PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — Leopold Stokowski, noted Philadelphia conductor, has a three-fold purpose in leading a "Youth Orchestra" throughout South America next summer.

"I have three aims in view," explained the maestro before departing for South America.

"First, to give young talent a chance to play great music with the same standards of orchestral culture as in major symphonies;

"Second; to create employment, because everyone should try to make jobs in these times;

"Third, I hope to make tours to other American republics after we complete our South American tour. This will be for good will and friendship—which are important right now.

"This Youth orchestra will be permanent," declared Stokowski, "but it will be constantly replenished, for I hope to train these musicians so they can go back into their home states and organize new youth orchestras all over the country.

"I'm counting on the enthusiasm of Youth," said the white-haired conductor. "They have elasticity and fervor and ecstacy. Plenty of people lose these things afterward, but youth has them all."

WEST RAMPANT WITH RUSTLING

Fiction's 'Wild and Wooly' Days Had Less Trouble Than Modern Age.

SANTA FE, N. W.—(INS)—The "wild and wooly" days of the west, which give verve to romantic fiction, actually had less cattle rustling than is rampant in this modern day and age.

Paul Ragle, Santa Fe representative of the New Mexico Cattle Sanitary Board, reported 17 cases of rustling within the last two months have been prosecuted in the First Judicial court alone, with other cases pending.

The modern rustler has departed from the stealth of running off herds under cover of darkness in best movie and fiction manner. He uses, instead, high-powered trucks.

State police claim the ranchers have made cattle stealing easy by allowing animals to stray from unfenced or poorly fenced ranges to points near the highway, where it has become easy for "rubber-tired rustlers" to make off with their loot.

The last New Mexico legislature took several steps to make marketing of stolen beef more difficult, but authorities claim the great amount of profit involved has enabled cattle thieves to ship the loot to other states, where the stolen animals are easily disposed

WALKERS WORK

Britain Utilizes All Energy Over Fighting Age.

LONDON—(U.P.)—Britain's new recruiting campaign for the 30s to 50s is for the AMPC (Auxiliary Military Pioneer Corps) and 150,000 of these can be absorbed if they can walk and work, and walk some more. For their work necessitates a 3 mile walk, a good day's work, and a 3 mile walk back to the camp

Curiously enough the AMPC is led by Major-Gen. L. W. Amps, and its work in France is maintaining the huge mechanized B. E. F. stores. Ammunition and fuel must be handled at the docks, roads must be repaired, sites for aerodromes cleared and buildings constructed. These and a thousand other jobs are the work of the AMPC.

Members of the corps go through a short intensive training and are then hustled off to help the B. E. F. Their pay is the same as the infantry. And in case they are needed to fight—every fourth AMP is fully armed.

English Cooks Learning Better Recipes After Two Centuries.

LONDON—(AP)—Although virtually every family in England has been eating potatoes every day for at least two centuries, the British Potato Marketing Board has just discovered that a lot of people don't know how they should be cooked

So the Government Stationery Office has published a recipe book describing 80 different way of preparing potatoes for the table. "Soups, salads, savouries and even cakes are included," the Stationery Office proudly announced.

COLLEGE CREDIT

Storekeeper Gives It, Too; Says Students Are Reliable.

LEXINGTON, Ky.—(AP)—Most students are "fundamentally honest," Jimmy Morris, who manages a small store near the University of Kentucky, believes.

Morris hands out candy to students during their "broke" periods without making a note of it. When "money from home" arrives, he says, they always pay him.

The ground cover plants such as English ivy, myrtle, pachysandra, and the evergreen euonymous should be cut back to force new growth if you find they have been damaged by the winter.

Lore of Indian Alien to Youth Of Full Blood

PITTSBURGH— (U.P.)—Kenneth Talchief, 19, full-blooded descendant of the Seneca and Cayuga tribes, never saw a peace pipe, wouldn't camp out because "it's too much trouble" and admits he saw his first Indian ceremonial dance a few weeks ago.

Kenneth, with his sister, Garnete, 18, resides on the North Side here.

"Just because we're Indians," Kenneth declared, "people expect us to live out-of-doors in tents, speak the Indian language and do an Indian war dance every now and then.

"Camping is too much trouble, and although my parents speak Indian, I've never learned."

MURDO NEEDED

LONDON—(INS)—"Murdo must come back" is the cry of the 60 farmers in the village of Cross Skigersta, on the Isle of Lewis near the Scottish coast. Murdo, or to give his full name of Murdo Smith, is the only tractor driver, threshing machinist, and mechanic in the village. He is now serving in the navy and efforts are being made to get him back in time for spring plowing.

You Can Swap Hot Dogs For Tortillas On Summer Trip

WASHINGTON — (AP) — If you were planning to run the family car from the United States down to Rio or Buenos Aires this summer, take a long spring nap and dream of something else.

There are some 718 miles of Indian trails down through Central America, an unsurveyed jungle in the Darien penninsula east of Panama, and plenty of other reasons why you don't make it this year.

This does not mean, however, that you can't swap a land cruise through channels marked by hot dog and hamburger stands for a jaunt into the terrain of tortillas, enchiladas and spanish lace.

The travel division of the Pan American Union says you can take the old bus down Mexico way as far as Mexico City and 80 miles beyond.

Paved roads show on the map from Nuevo Laredo, Texas, clear down to Jonacatepec some 850 miles south of the border. From there unpaved all-weather roads will insure fair travel down to Huajuapan, and so-called dry weather roads will enable you to reach Oaxaca and Mitla.

There the traveler will run into the first 350-mile stretch of Indian trails. The travel division says any effort to put an automobile, or even a motorcycle, over them would be "in the nature of an expedition, not a tour."

But they are in no wise discouraging to builders of the inter-American road.

During the past 10 years nations south of the difficult Central American isthmus have been winding a road structure northward, and in many cases latitudinally, for eventual tie up with the route running south from the United States.

HEMP IN ALASKA

Colonists Hope to Raise Product Used In Rope Manufacture.

PALMER, Alaska.—(AP)—Matanuska Valley farm colonists may raise hemp for the ropes of the world if experiments at the Matanuska Experiment Station continue successfully.

Superintendent Don Erwin said hemp sown last year grew seven feet high, and the harvest was sent to cordage makers in the United States for tests. Hemp is largely grown in Scandinavia, similar to this section of Alaska in climate.

ESKIMOES LIVE IN CORRUGATED IRON BUILDINGS

Missionary Has Yet to Find Alaskan Dwelling In Popular Igloo.

SANTA CLARA, Cal.—(INS)—"I have yet to find Alaskan Eskimos living in igloos."

Thus does Father Bernard Hubbard, professor of geology at the University of Santa Clara and known as the "Glacier Priest," dispel a popular misconception of home life in the Arctic. He has made 13 exploration trips to Alaska.

"The ice huts and villages of ice huts," continues Father Hubbard, "as pictured in some geographies, simply do not exist and apparently never did. For permanent dwellings the Eskimos today build practical shelters of corrugated iron with roofs of wood or walrus hide. Earlier Eskimos perhaps built homes of whale or walrus bone frames, with walrus skin coverings."

"All Eskimo life centers about the walrus herds. The walrus supplies them with food, clothing and shelter and puts money in their pockets. Their weapons, tools and boats are made from the walrus. On one walrus hunt in which I took part, the King Islanders shot and harpooned 76 of the huge animals. The surplus meat they put in cold storge in the natural ice caves of King Island.

"Their favorite diet, however, is raw whale—they do some whaling—and frozen fish, although walrus is the main reliance. These foods are as wholesome and delicious as any we have concocted with more scientific methods. As a result, the Eskimos seldom have stomach ailments common to civilization."

WAR ECONOMY

LONDON—(INS)—As a wartime economy London policemen in future will make two pairs of pants last 2½ instead of 1½ years. Instead of buying the castoffs for 12 cents they will now have to pay 90 cents Gloves issued to the police must last for four years instead of two years under the economy order.

Certainly Elaine Altevogt is cute. So much so that already she has a trust fund, earned as a baby model. Elaine is but 10 months old and lives in Brooklyn, N. Y. You see Elaine's picture in scores of baby advertisements.

NEW HONOR FOR WORLD WAR ACE

LONDON—(U.P.)—Wing Commander William Ernest Staton, boy flying ace of the World war and D. S. O. in this one, was the first air pilot to hold the double distinction.

As a 19-year-old lieutenant in the R. F. C. in 1918 he brought down 28 enemy planes—9 of them in five days.

As wing commander of the R. A. F. he has been awarded the D. S. O. for bravery in operations which included flights over Germany and raids on Borkum, Helgoland, Wilhelmshaven and the Schilling roads.

ARMY FASHION

LONDON—(INS)—Since King George appeared wearing a fur collar on his Army topcoat there has been a craze for fur collars on men's overcoats. Also favored by males are all-wool crepe pajamas, with a small check pattern instead of stripes.

EROSION, NEW STYLE

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Erosion is attacking on a new front. A report by the Los Angeles playground commission warns the city that unless protective measures are taken the broad beaches that lure millions of persons annually may be washed away.

CITY SEEKS TO GET TAX DRAW

General Fund in 'Red' $21,000, Auditor Asks $51,800 in Advance of Settlement.

With a deficit of $21,000 in the city's general fund, City Auditor Paul L. Kelley today made application to county officials for an advance of $51,800 on the first half year real estate tax settlement.

Kelley said the request for funds was made due to the depleted condition of the city's operating fund which would be shoved $5,000 further in the red today with a $5,000 semi-monthly payroll due.

However, of the total amount sought from funds due the city from real estate taxes only $18,000 will go into the general fund leaving a deficit of approximately $8,000.

Of the balance, $28,000 is earmarked for general bond retirement, $3,000 for firemen's pensions, $2,800 for police pensions, the auditor said.

Although temporarily crippled, the city's finances will be bolstered probably this month, Kelley explained, from personal property taxes, expected to produce in access of $20,000. Another $10,000 is also expected from sales tax receipts.

It is so much easier to tell what ought to be done than to get busy and do it.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Reward for Hitler

On behalf of a group of Pittsburgh residents, Samuel Harden Church, president of the Carnegie Institute, has offered a reward of $1,000,000 in cash for the delivery of Adolf Hitler, "alive, unwounded and unhurt" into the custody of the League of Nations. Church made the offer "in order to prevent further bloodshed and outrage in this war of German aggression."

FOES AT HOME PALS ABROAD WRITERS' WAY

British and Germans Cover Sino-Japanese War On Friendly Terms.

PEKING, China—(INS)—Covering the Sino-Japanese war has made bedfellows of British and German correspondents who, were they back in Europe, would be enemies. A typical instance of this truce in one war while following another war was an evening in a crude inn at the frontier town of Paotou in Inner Mongolia.

American, British, and German correspondents had flown there to watch the Japanese drive on Wuyuan, conducted by a Japanese lieutenant.

At night an American, one British and two Germans lay down to sleep on the hard stone bed. Before lights out, discussion started on the Sino-Japanese war and naturally shifted to the European conflict. Without bias the German and British enemies stretched out side by side, stated their cases.

Further to complicate the international mixture, the subject shifted to the current anti-British boycott conducted by the Japanese army in China. Thereupon the British correspondent and the Japanese officer went over the pros and cons.

Thus after such touchy topics, the international group faded off to sleep in preparation for the morrow's common covering of a war in which they were neutrals.

WINES POPULAR

SAN FRANCISCO—(INS)—California's wine industry is pointing with pride to two major advances in the past five years. National consumption of California wines has risen from 26,000,000 gallons in 1934 to 65,000,000 gallons in 1939. At the same time the national average of taxes on wine has dropped from 22 cents a gallon to 8¼ cents a gallon.

OLD TIME CHARM

BOWLING GREEN, Ky.—(AP)—Campbell Jones probably would meet no dispute in his claim to the oldest watch fob in the nation. The fob, about the size of a hickory nut, is a petrified trilobite, estimated by geologists to be 46 million years old. Jones himself is a geologist.

Mansfield Seeks Second Straight Win at Lima Today

By CHARLES MARTIN

IMPRESSED by the potent batting attack displayed in the opener at the Fairground last night, Manager Dewey Stover sent his Mansfield Braves after their second straight triumph against the Pandas at 3 p. m. today at Lima.

* * * * *

Frank Kress, righthander hailing from Niagara Falls, N. Y., was Stover's nomination to handle the mound duties for the Braves. Evans was to toe the rubber for Lima.

* * * * *

Pounding out 15 hits, the Braves jumped into the win column last night by swamping Lima, 13 to 5, before a chilled, but thrilled gathering in the initial contest at the Fairground.

With approximately 1,000 fans looking on, Mansfield, with Howard Beals, veteran shortstop leading the way, shoved six runs across the plate in the first frame to take a lead that was never seriousy threatened.

Another happy thought dwelled in Stover's mind today—the fine relief hurling of Dick Green, a southpaw, who relieved Richard Otto, the starting pitcher, in the second frame.

Dishing up an assortment of curves and fast ones, Green set the Pandas down with four hits.

Three Lima moundsmen paraded to the hill last night in an effort to check the Braves' attack, but none were able to successfully silence the Mansfield bats.

Mansfield added three tallies in the third, duplicated the feat in the fourth and punched over another marker in the eighth. Stover, incidentally, was the only Brave who failed to secure at least one hit.

Beals clouted out a triple, double and single to pace the attack and Mangan, substitute catcher, who was hit twice by pitched balls, added a triple and double to the total.

Young Otto ran into trouble in the first frame as Lima tallied once, and Stover pulled him with one out in the second after three successive hits, coupled with a walk and wild pitch gave the Pandas two runs.

Green allowed the invaders single tallies in the fifth and ninth innings. In only one frame, the ninth, did Lima solve Green's slants for more than one hit.

The Braves looked good in the field last night as they handled every chance cleanly. Their lone error came in the second when Otto threw high to second base.

Mansfield clicked off two nifty double plays. The first was in the second with Bill Padar, Beals and Harry Seigbert turning the trick and then the trio did it again in the eighth.

Lima had trouble handling the hard hit drives off the Braves' bats and committed six bobbles. Two of the errors allowed the Mansfielders to score three runs in the fourth.

All six teams in the league open their championship race today. Fostoria plays at Findlay and Fremont invades Tiffin.

Activities got under way at the Fairground at 7:30 when Cy Young, Turk Reilly, Roger Bresnahan, all former major league players, were introduced to the fans. Cy then hurled the ball to Bresnahan after Mayor W. J. Locke unwrapped and handed the ball to Young. The game started promptly at 8:30.

* * * * *

Mansfield Braves' officials today announced that the night games will start at 8:15 o'clock the rest of the season.

* * * * *

Dodgers Find 'Old Abe' Was Right After All

Brooklyn Now Realizes 'You Can't Fool All the People All the Time.'

CINCINNATI—(AP)—You can fool all of the people some of the time and some of the people all of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time.

Abraham Lincoln said that a long time ago and no doubt in just one corner of his mind he was thinking of the Brooklyn Dodgers, for he was a forethoughtful man.

Thus the Cincinnati Reds are out there again today to prove that this fooling has gone on long enough and it's time to restore the Dodgers to their accustomed niche in life. Gene Thompson is the man to try to do it and Whitlow Wyatt with the ailing knee is against him.

Certain unprejudiced scholars point out that just 20 years ago come October the Dodgers followed the Reds' first pennant with one of their own and history sometimes looks like a squirrel in a revolving cage.

What with Tex Carleton's no-hitter Tuesday and Hugh Casey's good start yesterday, the Brooks kept the Reds for 12 innings without a hit, much less a run.

Then in that fourth inning Bill Werber lined out a double and there was an ominous hiss from the Reds' safety valve. When Bill came up again it was still the fourth inning so he rounded it out with a homer.

In between was Ernie Lombardi's homer with the bases loaded and the net result was eight runs, enough to have won Tuesday's game, too.

Pete Coscarart hit another home run in the fifth just to keep the Dodgers in the game and Cookie Lavagetto's double, a wild pitch, and a fly made the second Brooklyn run in the sixth.

Otherwise Bucky Walters was coasting, so who wouldn't after such a fourth, to his third victory in three starts.

* * *

The game meant a lot to the Dodgers, or would if they had won. A victory would have given them ten straight from scratch and broken an old record of nine held by the Giants.

But, as Lincoln said. . . .

In the lower photo, Harry Seigbert, firstbaseman, is shown as he took a throw from Howard Beals to retire Flynn. Lima centerfielder, in the sixth. Mansfield won, 13 to 5.

Vitt Nominates Rookie Mike Naymick to Face Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Manager Oscar Vitt, his pitching plans upset by sore arms and ineffectiveness, nominated Rookie Mike Naymick to hurl the rubber game of the Philadelphia series today. Johnny Babich was due for the A's.

Naymick, the six-foot eight right hander, stopped Detroit, 4 to 2, in his first start. A decision over the Athletics would virtually clinch a regular assignment for the Weirton, (W. Va.) youth, at least for the next few weeks.

The A's pounded Johnny Allen yesterday to win 5to 1, and square the series at one apiece.

Allen and Bob Feller, rated two of the Indians most dependable flingers, each has pitched two of the Indians' four defeats. Vitt's problems have been increased by the arm troubles of Mel Harder and Al Milnar.

Ray Mack's seventh-inning home run was the only score the Indians were able to produce with their seven hits off Nelson Potter. Mack and Jeff Heath doubled in other innings, but were left stranded.

The Athletics scored in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings to take a 3 to 1 lead before Allen retired for a pinch hitter,

His successor, Bill Zuber, fared even worse, Wally Moses and Bob Johnson blasting home runs in the eighth.

Oscar Grimes, the Minerva (O.) jack-of-all-trades, played first base in place of Hall Trosky, called to Cleveland by the illness of his 14-months-old son. Trosky probably will remain at home for several days, club officials said.

Millers Face Indianapolis

Association Pace Setters Battle 2nd Place Team.

American association observers speculated on history repeating itself today as western clubs of the league launched their 1940 home seasons.

Minneapolis, current pace setter, came home to face second place, Indianapolis after its best opening road tour since 1931. The Millers won eight games and lost two in the east.

Clear and warmer weather, a downtown parade and a crowd of more than 9,000 persons were on the welcoming list.

* * *

However, the home getaway of Kansas City's defending champions, who play last place Columbus, was expected to draw the largest crowd of the day —16,000.

* * *

Another 9,000 spectators were anticipated for St. Paul's opener with Louisville. Only at Milwaukee did weather threaten as the Brewers were scheduled to meet Toledo.

ABC Ready to Close Books for Season

DETROIT—(U.P.)—The dopesters are ready to close their books at the American Bowling congress tournament, confident that nothing short of a miracle can knock the Chicago Monarchs out of the 1940 team championship.

The last major contenders for the title, the Detroit Strohs, folded completely under pressure last night and failed even to make a dent in the list of leaders. The former champions rolled games of 912, 956 and 984. Their 2,852 total fell more than 200 pins short of the Monarchs' score of 3,047 which is expected to win top prize of $1,500.

Face Test Today

Brooklyn Dodgers, After 9-2 Defeat, Meet Cincy Again Today.

By JUDSON BAILEY

THE real test for the Brooklyn Dodgers will start today.

This isn't as ridiculous as it may sound, because an era in the lives of the darling Dodgers has just been completed—a miraculous era of nine consecutive victories climaxed by a no-hitter—and today they are just another strong contender in the National league.

Everyone knew, of course, the Dodgers would lose a game sooner or later and everyone knows now that they will lose a lot more over the long, arduous stretch of the season. The real test is whether they show the same proclivity for losing streaks they have for winning.

* * *

The awakening—beaten 9-2 by Cincinnati — certainly was rude enough. Hugh Casey was going along pitching a no-hitter for three innings and the writers were wondering what superlatives they could say about a second no-hitter that they hadn't used the day before for Tex Carleton.

Then it was boom-boom-boom-boom so fast in the fourth inning Manager Leo Durocher didn't have a chance to get Casey off the mound before the Reds had made six hits and eight runs.

Bucky Walters held the Dodgers to six hits for his third victory without defeat.

The rest of the National league was rained out yesterday, but the American had a full day.

The New York Yankees got back in the groove with a well-pitched five-hit game by Monte Pearson giving them a 5-3 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

The Philadelphia Athletics stopped the Cleveland Indians, 5-1, on the effective seven-hit hurling of Nelson Potter, with Wally Moses and Bob Johnson helping with home runs.

This setback enabled the Boston Red Sox to move back into a tie for first place with a 12-4 conquest of the Chicago White Sox. Boston benefited from a 13-hit offensive led by Jimmy Foxx with his fifth home run and the notable relief pitching of Rookie Herb Hash, who allowed one hit in five innings.

* * *

The Washington Senators gave away a 10-7 game to the Detroit Tigers, who made four errors in trying not to accept the generous gesture. But Washington's four pitchers prevailed, giving 15 walks and 10 hits.

McLemore Calls On Colonel Matt Winn for Real Low-Down

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — (U.P.) — I am no bloodhound of a reporter, and there are tens of thousands with better noses for news, but even to me it was obvious that the best source of information on the Kentucky Derby was Colonel Matt Winn.

* * *

So I went to see the Colonel sunk deep in an old leather chair, in his office in a wing of Churchhill Downs that commands a view of the turn into the stretch. Not for him a box on the finish line, where the race is over, but a vantage point where the jockeys really go to work and the class of a thoroughbred begins to tell.

Over a glass of bourbon that must have dated back to the day the Colonel saw his first Derby in 1875—and that was the first Derby— he warned me never to believe that any horse was a sure thing in the Derby.

"Everybody says Bimelech is unbeatable now," Colonel Winn said, "but I won't believe it till his number and his price go up on the board under the official sign. As long ago as 1889—or 51 full years—I learned that nothing is sure on a race track. Because it was in 1889 that Proctor Knott was thought to be so invincible that the mention of any other horse brought jeers and hoots and all the other standard forms of derision. He was even more of a standout than Bimelech is today.

"You must know what happened. A thing called Spokane—on which I bet $100 which is the most I ever have bet on any race—won it easy. Back of the barns, Spokane's trainer had brought him along. No shouting, no great times in workouts, no dazzling past performances, in fact, no advance notice of any sort. Spokane was just another horse."

As a Bimelech supporter of the water before the first war, this gave me pause. Did Colonel Winn, I reasoned to myself, have a mystery horse up his sleeve, so to speak?

Being a forthright soul, I asked him if he did. As a matter of fact, I looked up his blue serge sleeve myself. There was nothing there except normal sleeve equipment. So, when I left him, I turned to the record books to see if Proctor Knott were the only "good thing," who had missed on Derby day at the Downs.

It was amazing to find how many great horses had failed in the run for the horseshow of Derby roses. There were such great runners at Granville, Brevity, Head Play, Blue Larkspur, Osmond, Pompey, Quatrain, Enchantment, Tryster, Damask and Eternal—all of them favored in these past 20 years and all of them beaten badly.

There is only one way to win a horse race and there are 10,000 ways to lose one.

The way to win is to be there first. The ways to lose it take your choice: Bad jockey, bad start, bad pockets, bad tracks, bad judgment of trainers or owners, and all the other bads you can conjure up.

* * *

So, be careful of wagering on Saturday's winner. Be careful that you don't wager on anything but Bimelech. He is that much the best.

Pro Leagues Get Underway

Middle Atlantic, Ohio State Clubs Play Today.

(By Associated Press)

Ohio's two smallest professional baseball leagues—the Class C Middle Atlantic and the Class D Ohio State—swing into operation today.

It is opening day in three Mid-Atlantic cities as Canton begins defense of its pennant at Portsmouth, Charleston invades Youngstown, and Dayton entertains Akron.

President Elmer Daly announced the selection of six umpires for the season — Gomer James of Youngstown, John Flaherty of Maynard, Miss., State Sen. Bruff Cleary of Fort Wayne, Ind., James Bowdoin of Jay, Fla., Joe White, of Wheeling, W. Va., and George McNaly of Altoona, Pa.

Mansfield got the jump on its Ohio State league rivals last night, downing Lima 13 to 5 in the curtain riser.

The other four clubs in the circuit open tonight with Fremont at Tiffin and Findlay at Fostoria.

EXPECT 14 SCHOOLS AT FIRST NEWARK RELAYS

NEWARK — (AP) — Fourteen schools, with 298 individual entrants, will participate Saturday in the first annual Newark relays. Cleveland Central, with 36 on its squad, is sending the largest contingent of runners and jumpers.

Other entrants, with the number of boys, include Springfield 28, Lima Central 6, Dennison 20, and Newark 35. Seven schools, from Chillicothe, Cleveland, Columbus and Newark, are entered in a special junior high relay.

Side Glances at Opening Ohio State League Contest

By GEORGE SATTLER

HAWKERS tried their best to sell i-i-ice c-c-cold pop last night but all they got for their trouble was laryngitis. Hot dogs and hotter coffee was what brought the pennies rolling into the concession stand at the Mansfield Braves' ball park last night.

* * *

Just like the stay-at-homes figured, it was cold and a drizzly rain in the first four innings helped to make the fans at last night's game uncomfortable—but they stayed and had a lot of fun out of it.

* * *

There were more than just a few things that held their interest besides the bat breaking demonstrations staged by the slugging Braves in their opener.

Here are some of the things that caught the eye of the side glancer:

The Legion Drum and Bugle corps saluted the fans as they filed into the grandstand, but was all but drowned out by the click of chattering teeth.

* * *

Ralph Hughes took a bow via the public address system for his work in organizing the pre-game parade and making arrangements for the opener.

* * *

Mayor W. J. Locke, baseball's immortal Cy Young, Turk Reilly, former big league catcher, and Joe C. Hartline, president of the Mansfield club, publicly thanked the fans for their loyal support on such a miserable evening.

* * *

Led by the Legion Drum and Bugle corps and the Grotto, the two ball clubs marched across the field for a flag-raising ceremony. The flag was donated to the Mansfield Braves by the Mansfield Tent and Awning company.

* * *

Paul Shank, president of the Ohio State league, was among those present to watch the Braves and Lima open the 1940 season.

* * *

Spectators had words of praise for Larry Scott, Braves' grounds keeper, because of the splendid condition of the field.

* * *

Cy Young, who pitched a perfect no-hit game against the Philadelphia Athletics way back when, showed the fans that he could still hit the plate. Without so much as a warm-up, Cy wound up and pitched a couple straight across the old platter. Although you would never guess it, Young it 73 years old.

* * *

"Lightning," the Braves' official ball chaser, appeared on the field clad in bright new raiment. His new get-up contained all the colors of the rainbow and a few that Mother Nature hasn't got around to yet. On the back of his jersey was his official number—a big, round zero.

* * *

The first ball pitched by Dick Otto, Braves' starting hurler, was a strike. When the Mansfield team came to bat, Connie Zerman, lead-off man, hit the first ball pitched over second base for a single. Dewey Stover crossed his fingers and hoped that this was a good omen.

* * *

Seigbert, Braves' first baseman, had the honor of being the first batter of the 1940 season to bounce a line drive off the fence.

* * *

Although Tim Mangan, Mansfield catcher, may or may not be superstitious, he has reason to be. Mangan, whose number is "13," was hit twice last night by hard-pitched balls.

ISSUES REGAIN PART OF LOSS IN MART TODAY

Brokers Say Pessimism Over Allied Reverses Seem to Have Waned.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market had mild rallying ideas today and leaders recovered portions of yesterday's losses.

Pessimism over allied reverses in Norway seemed to have waned somewhat, brokers said. Business news had its cheerful aspects here and there.

Prominent on the early comeback were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, Anaconda, U. S. Rubber and Great Northern.

Bonds were selectively higher and markets at London and Paris did better. Amsterdam was closed for a holiday. Commodities were a trifle mixed.

Market recovery proponents found encouragement in the summary of the engineering news-record disclosing private building awards, for the week ended Tuesday, were 82 per cent above the comparable period last year.

Radio and Films Seen School Aid Of Future Pupil

CHICAGO—(INS)—If training being given prospective teachers at the National College of Education is any indication, the schoolhouse of the future will be part broadcasting studio, part motion picture theater and part concert hall.

Students at the college are receiving training in the use of radio microphones, sound motion pictures projectors and films and phonograph records to dramatize classroom work.

Miss Edna Dean Baker, president of the college, commented:

"We consider audio-visual equipment and a knowledge of its use to be as important in training the modern teacher as books and other published material.

"It is inevitable that the scientific advances of the last decade will be turned to the service of education and teachers must be prepared to make use of them."

ON 3-DAY TRIP

Five Mansfield Insurance Representatives Go To Nashville Parley.

Five local representatives of the National Life and Accident Insurance company left yesterday for Nashville, Tenn., where they will be guests of the company for three days.

They are E. S. Wendell, superintendent of the Mansfield office, C. D. Parsons, R. E. McFadden, H. D. Yarnell and H. F. Huff. The men were given the trip in recognition of their high standing in a sales campaign for the first quarter of 1940.

They will make a tour of the home office and be guests at a dinner and entertainment tomorrow night.

ADD 19 YEARS TO LIFE OVER PAST CENTURY

Science Makes Rapid Progress Conquering Disease In Last 40 Years.

CHICAGO— (INS) —Americans have added nineteen years to the average length of life in the past hundred years.

Eleven of these nineteen years have been added since 1900, according to health reports gathered by the Hospital Research Institute, Chicago

"So rapid has been the progress of science in conquering disease," says the institute, "man's life span is to be lengthened still further. In another 25 years, it is possible communicable diseases may practically be exterminated."

Efforts made to lift the national health standard have been aided tremendously by the growing knowledge that the hospital is coming to be the community health center in which this battle of science is waged to defeat disease and accident, the institute declares.

"Contagious and infectious diseases are being traced to their causes," continued the institute "They are being defeated by isolation and asepsis, sterilization serum, and other modern methods which improve from year to year Because of advances made in science and the medical professions, the mortality rate for tuberculosis has been reduced more than 66 per cent in the past three decades

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, MAY 2, 1940.

You can't change the weather by firing the weather man.

Jim Farley shows commendable restraint in overcoming a natural inclination to include champion prizefighters in the series of commemorative postage stamps.

A Nazi admirer refers to Hitler as "a genius who was born a century before his time"—but he is more plausibly explained as a delayed product of the Middle Ages.

Nazi 'Proofs' Not Convincing

MAJOR GEORGE F. ELIOT, American military expert and syndicated writer on technical war matters, promptly pulled apart the alleged "operation orders" of the British authorities for the invasion of Norway and showed them to be full of inconsistencies and apparent forgeries.

Still more convincing to the open-minded world-public was the detailed answer of C. J. Hambro, president of the Norwegian parliament and chairman of the foreign affairs committee. He presented "irrefutable proof" that the Nazis had prepared detailed plans for invasion of Norway months before it occurred, had started to occupy strategic ports and cities before the British did, and were actually in possession when the British arrived.

But a matter of this kind no longer requires labored proof, so far as American opinion is concerned. The Nazi technique has become so well known, by repeated acts of aggression, that it is easily recognized.

The Allies themselves have not been entirely above reproach in some of their methods, but so far in this war the evil initiative in vital breaches of international law seems nearly always to have been with the Nazis.

Cause for Giving Thanks

WHILE some other parts of the world are depressed by wars and the suffering they entail, it is interesting to consider that two great fairs, for entertainment and education, are soon to open again in New York and San Francisco.

What a contrast to the death, destruction and debt that face warring nations! At the fairs in California and New York will be presented a record of industrial and intellectual achievement for the betterment of humanity.

This nation should feel most thankful that it can devote itself to such constructive undertakings. The record of progress as shown in these two great fairs, should be an object lesson to Americans to stand firmly for policies which recognize the superiority of intelligence over brute force in securing lasting settlements of disputed questions.

Let us hope that as our people visit these interesting expositions on the two sides of this continent, they will think of the important principles they represent beyond the mere giving of pleasure. Be thankful you can travel in America as a free citizen and enjoy the privileges it has to offer.

More About Destructive Dogs

AN INCONSPICUOUS item in yesterday's paper sufficed to tell a long story—a story that is familiar to many people in many parts of the city at this time of year.

The item told of the police ordering the owner of a dog to "tie up" the animal after neighbors complained that it destroyed their property.

However much they may be valued as family pets, the fact remains that dogs permitted to run loose in a city can easily become neighborhood nuisances and destructive to gardens, flower beds and shrubbery.

Even in what is regarded as one of Mansfield's most desirable residential sections, damage caused to well-kept yards by neighborhood dogs sometimes discourages further landscaping and beautification.

While dogs may merit their designation as "man's best friend" it should also be remembered by dog owners that a neighbor's yard is not a proper place to display this friendliness.

Planning Your Vacation Trip

THE vacation problem that faces many people is the difficulty of choosing among many attractive possibilities.

Travel books are popular these days, and very numerous. They often cost money, but never lack for buyers. Then there are the free folders prepared by travel agencies, by railroad and steamship companies, by hotel and resort associations. Many of these are fascinating and beautifully illustrated.

Chambers of commerce and state publicity bureaus contribute their quota to this literature, and the government gladly comes through with information about national parks and forests.

It's a pleasant between-vacations pastime to study maps, leaflets and books about America's scenic and historic places and the actual vacation trip is made much more enjoyable by advance knowledge of things that should be seen along the way.

One of the valuable services of the Richland County Automobile club is that of providing its members with information in regard to routes and supplying maps and folders that help in planning motor trips anywhere in the United States, also into Canada and Mexico.

Indians In Our World

DELEGATES from the 21 American republics attended the recent Inter-American Congress on Indians, at Patzcuraro, Mexico. Ten days were given to study of Indian problems. The foundation of an inter-American Institute for Indian studies and a permanent committee to direct them was the principal achievement of the meetings.

Resolutions adopted by the Congress included a proposal to help Indians, in countries where they lack free access to the land, to get farms, credit and technical help. It was agreed that Indian customs and special circumstances affecting Indians should be considered in applying laws to them and that Indian women should have the same rights as men where ownership of properties is concerned.

It was suggested that a "day of the Indian" should be celebrated throughout the American continents and special stamps issued for it.

In this connection it is pleasant to learn from Oliver La Farge's book about the North American Indian, "As Long As The Grass Shall Grow," that the treatment of this minority group in the United States has improved in recent years.

An effort is being made to keep radio jokes simple—possibly in deference to that kind of an audience.

It really isn't shorter hours of work that some folks want—it's fewer of them.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Where are the Kreugers and the Spoletos of yesteryear? And where are the Rossis, the Oldenburgs and the Vesseuis? These are great names in the motor boat racing world. But the war has kept them, and they may never come to the regattas again.

I was talking about these men only last night with George Sutton, the man who is chairman of the international affairs committee of the American Power Boat association. Sutton is a former president of the association and knows intimately everyone connected with motor boat racing in Europe and in this country. He thinks the war has just about wrecked racing—as it was. There will be competitions, but with the European stars eliminated by blitzkrieg and mobilization, it can hardly be the same.

All of these men mentioned here are well known and highly regarded in America. They have raced before the president, at Detroit and on the coast. Where are they now? Count Theo Rossi, the Italian speed boat king and Gold cup champion of the world, is a captain in the Italian army, and is mobilized. His countryman, the Duke of Spoleto, is commanding a torpedo boat flotilla in the Red sea. The Duke is a cousin of the King and head of the Italian Motor Boat Federation.

COMMODORE R. C. KREUGER is in the German navy. In 1933 he and his wife came to America and raced successfully in the 1½ litre class. They became widely popular here. Like Rossi and the Duke of Spoleto, Kreuger is a close personal friend of Maurice Vasseui, the French motor boat champion. In his spare time Vasseui manufactures airplane propellers.

Another racing champion and courteous sportsman well known in America is Arthur Bray, an Englishman, who has charge of the motor boat patrol of the Thames. If London is bombed, as many believe it ultimately will be, it is planned to evacuate much of the population by the river. They feel it almost certain that the seven great roads leading into the heart of London will be among the first objectives of the Nazi airmen.

Another British racing enthusiast is Lord Forbes, 10th ranking peer in the British Empire. He is an officer in the Royal Air Force. Kurt Oldenburg is the outboard champion of Sweden and an officer in the Swedish navy. It may be that by the time you read this Oldenburg will have an opportunity to display his skill with boats that were designed for more serious purposes than racing after gold trophies.

IN SUTTON'S possession is a letter sent to him only eight months ago in the Finnish government. It urges him to interest many American racers into entering the great regattas which Finland, for the first time, was to incorporate as part of the 1940 Olympics. But now of course there will be no regattas. There won't even be Olympics. And Finland herself now is more shadow than substance.

Still another champion is Alfred Buysse of Belgium, who may lose his life the very first day, if Belgium is invaded. All of these men have put away thoughts of friendly competition on pleasant waters, with a little gold cup hanging in the balance.

Can You "Eat Bitterness"?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

ALL DAY a phrase has been blowing like a bugle in my heart, lifting me above the drag of my own grief and fear. It is a phrase from a far country, from a country which knew the ways of the human spirit before ever Anglo or Saxon made their first fumbling gesture toward civilization. China. China fighting now for her life against an invading horde. Edgar Snow writes of that fight, titles it, "The Dragon Licks His Wounds." A rarely great article. And the greatest sentence in that article is this:

"The basic strength of China lies in the ability of the Chinese women to 'eat bitterness' and still carry on smiling."

"To eat bitterness"—

To swallow the shocks of life . . . the losses and the loneliness. To be willing to walk those 'Stations of the Cross' which everyone who dares the supreme adventure of Love must face . . . dying a little at each terrible test, that someone else may live, or a great cause be served. That is not only the basic strength of modern China . . . that has been the basic strength of the race since humanity began. To men, the adventure. To women, the sacrifice and tears.

For every woman who dares to live to the limit of her womanhood must "eat bitterness" from maidenhood to death. Each child she bears, she must eventually release—and lose—to the ruthless tide of life. The man she loves must move with that same tide—forgetting her often. She must learn, to their last searing agony and beauty, the meaning of those awful words—

"He who would save his life must lose it . . . but he who will lose his life for My sake shall find it."

The women of China are smiling today. Their sons are dead. Their mates rot on the plains of Manchuria. And yet they smile because, into their frail, pale hands, the flags of a great crusade have been handed down. And in their gentle, courageous souls there flames a vision which has transformed their flower-like beauty to Amazon fighting strength.

Such a transformation is not new in the history of this world. It happens endlessly. It is one of God's radiant miracles. In each new marriage, where real love shines, some fragile girl girds her heart to "eat bitterness" that a home may be built . . . that a babe may be born.

Can YOU "eat bitterness"? That is the challenge Life throws at every human being who enters its thundering arena. Any fool can caper and wisecrack. Any coward can duck and hide. But only the truly great . . . the truly brave . . . can "eat bitterness" and laugh in the face of heartbreak and death — for the sake of some—thing greater than personal happiness.

Evanston Is Smart.

Evanston, Ill., which is always being praised for some sort of municipal excellence, now has approval of the American Society of Planning Officials. It makes new zoning ordinances whenever it discovers growth tendencies that are not for the general welfare.

In common with many promising cities, Evanston got too enthusiastic in the late 1920s. It revised its zoning regulations with too much optimism. The previous revision was but six years earlier.

Now a new ordinance has been enacted which reduces by 20 per cent the amount of land zoned for commercial purposes and by 50 per cent the area zoned for multiple dwellings. Also it requires larger lots for single-family homes and makes strict rules for parking space to keep residence streets clear.

Revised zoning laws, properly enforced, safeguard public revenues and help to keep a city a desirable place in which to live and do business.—Detroit News.

Everyday Poem

Speaking of Friendship.

Let me draw a picture of Friends I cherish most;
You and you and this old house,
And this day, I toast.

House? You whisper, do you say
House, a friend? Ah, yes,
More it means to me than I,
I myself, may guess

Day a friend, this day? Is it
Not to beauty sworn?
Neighborly? A soft caress
In its breezes borne?

Flowers are my friends and sky
Earth and air and sea
People, yes, but other friends
Mean as much to me.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Why Is It Called "Penknife?"

Found in almost everybody's pocket, the penknife, with the advent of the mechanical pencil, is carried for no reason, except perhaps vaguely that it may come in handy—say, to whittle wood!

Certainly, it is never used to sharpen a pen; but that, over five hundred years ago, is how it started.

Our pens today are made of steel or gold; but the penknife had its origin in the time when people wrote with quills.

When the quills wore or broke, it became necessary, and at unexpected moments, to sharpen or reshape them.

So, convenience decreed a small knife which could be carried about in the pocket, the product devised being first a tool that slid into a sheath and later a folding instrument with a joined blade that fitted into a handle and which was appropriately called a penknife.

Health And Diet

Pre-Natal Care Of Mother's Teeth.

—By DR. CLENDENING

How much attention should the expectant mother give to her teeth?

She should give a little more thought to her teeth than usual. The old adage "For every child, a tooth" is an exaggeration, by no means necessarily true; it applies almost always to infected teeth or teeth that were in a suspicious condition before pregnancy began.

Certainly the expectant mother should consult the dentist frequently. This is part of regular modern pre-natal care. Foci of infection about the mouth should be treated, although severe operative procedures had best be left until later.

Under diet, for the good of the child and mother both, it is well to see that there is plenty of vitamin D and vitamin C in the diet of the expectant mother. A diet built up around the five main articles—meat, eggs, milk, vegetables and fruits—will supply these essential elements. One or two eggs daily will correct a deficiency of vitamin D. A quart of milk supplies 1.2 grams of calcium, which is adequate for normal demands. If the expectant mother is unable to drink milk and eat proper amounts of green vegetables, it becomes necessary to add calcium powder to the diet. In months when there is little sunshine, some form of cod-liver oil should be added to the mother's diet.

Art of Brushing.

Oral hygiene is doubly important. A clean mouth contributes to the comfort and health of the mother at this time. In many cases where it is evident that the mother has not learned the proper way to brush her teeth, this should be carefully taught her.

There is nothing different in this from ordinary personal hygiene. Proper pre-natal care should make an expectant mother feel not that pregnancy is some terrible disease, but that it is simply a normal physiologic process.

Pre-natal care is the greatest safeguard, not only to the safe delivery of a healthy child and to the safety of the mother at that time, but also to the health of her whole future life. If mothers lost a tooth for every child they bore in the old days, it was because they did not call the doctor until the last minute. And what is true of the teeth is true of all the rest of the body.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — When cocky ex-champagne salesman Joachim von Ribbentrop summoned diplomats and the press to a gala presentation of the Nazi white paper the other day, it may have been that he was chiefly concerned with covering up some dynamite which the Allies had discovered.

At that meeting Ribbentrop claimed that Germany went into Norway because secret Allied plans to penetrate Scandinavia first had been discovered. But the real truth, as reported to official sources here, was very different.

What actually happened was that six or seven days before the invasion of Norway, French and British intelligence services got wind of a German plan to launch a whirlwind war about mid-May.

This lightning war was to include the invasion of Norway; the invasion of Holland; the occupation of Greece by Mussolini; and an attack on the Maginot line. Apparently the strategy was hatched at the famous Hitler-Mussolini conference at the Brenner Pass, and was calculated to sweep the Allies off their feet.

Naturally when Allied intelligence agents learned of this, the first thing the British did was check into the situation in Norway. There, thanks to British prodding, the Norwegian government (which is a labor government) uncovered certain high-placed officers who were sympathetic to the Nazis, in some cases ready to go over to them.

So Norway started to clean house. Naturally when the pro-Nazi Norwegians were fired, it tipped off the Germans to the fact that the Allies were in on their plot. So they started into Norway almost immediately.

There is no question that before the Norwegian government had time to oust many of the inside plotters, the British had prepared maps of Norway and had figured on the possibility of military operations there. Some of the more forceful in the Chamberlain cabinet even wanted to do what Ribbentrop accused them of planning—going into Norway first. But Chamberlain and a majority of the cabinet were against it.

This was about all the truth there was to the Ribbentrop white paper.

Trust-Busting.

ASSISTANT Attorney General Thurman was telling dynamic John Hamilton about his trust-busting activities and his enforcement of the Sherman anti-trust act.

"I have no complaint to make against you Republicans," Arnold told the chairman of the Republican national committee. "In fact, it's just the opposite. When I was having a tough time geting my appropriation through congress, it was Senator Taft who came to my rescue and put the appropriation through.

"And when I went after the milk trust and the labor rackets out in Chicago, the best co-operation I got was from Colonel Knox."

"Of course!" shot back John Hamilton. "We Republicans put that anti-trust legislation on the statute books and we want to see it enforced."

Roosevelt Delegates.

SEVERAL weeks before fast-working Governor Ed Rivers of Georgia had officially lined up Georgia's delegates for a third term, he made a trip to Washington and reported to Roosevelt that unofficially he had the Georgia Democrats in line.

"I've followed your instructions, Mr. President," reported Rivers, "and I've got all the Georgia delegates bagged for your man at the convention. But you know how cats are when you get 'em in a bag. They're a-scratchin' and a-clawin', and I don't know when they're going to get out."

"That's fine, Ed," replied the president, "just keep hold of that bag."

However, the governor of Georgia was not as enthusiastic as the president. Doubtless, also, he was interested in pinning him down on the third term. He said:

"Well, I can hold 'em all right, Mr. President, if I'm holding them for you. But if I'm holding them for someone else, then they want to know about it so they can each get their cream."

"I'll let you know when the time comes, Ed," replied the president. "Meanwhile, you just hold on to that bag."

Note—The above conversation is particularly significant because it represents the attitude of almost every Democratic state boss, including Mayor Hague of Jersey City and Mayor Kelly of Chicago. They are for a third term for Roosevelt, but they don't guarantee to transfer their delegates to Roosevelt's fair-haired boy—especially if he is a New Dealer.

Bury Barden Bill.

THERE isn't a chance of the house-approved Barden bill, which axes the Wage-Hour law, getting past the senate.

Not only is the labor committee, which has jurisdiction over the measure, strongly against it, but GOP leaders privately want it ditched. They consider the legislation bad politics because it would give Roosevelt a chance to issue a resounding veto message blasting supporters of the bill as enemies of the working man.

What's going to happen to the bill is that, with secret Republican co-operation, it will be shelved in the senate labor committee. That's what the house labor committee did; but it was circumvented by the unprecedented action of the rules committee.

That committee, loaded with haters of labor unions, went over the labor committee's head and placed the measure before the house for a vote. But the senate has no rules committee to pull stunts like this, never has permitted itself to be bossed by a little clique.

Self Defense

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

OUR White Rock roosters—we have four—are glossy big fellows with proud red heads and gracefully arched tail feathers. One of them, that froze his comb last winter so that part of it dropped off, has a belligerent disposition.

Our little boy, not yet three, is a gentle child, shy and lacking in self confidence. On several occasions he went out to play and came in crying. His mother was unable to understand his vehement tearful explanation of why he would not go out again. His older brother said, "He's afraid of the rooster."

One day recently I watched a little drama. The two boys had been playing about the lawn. The five-year-old took the wheelbarrow and went off, leaving the younger alone. The little fellow was absorbed in digging a hole with a kitchen spoon. (Why, I wonder, are spoons so in demand for digging?) He did not notice the approach of danger until a winged ball of fury with angry beak and sprouting spurs struck him on the shoulders and knocked him flat upon the grass. With a scream of fright the child scrambled up. Frozen Comb stood there, his neck feathers ruffed, his feet wide apart, ready to spring again.

Suddenly, across the lawn, came another rooster muttering in his throat things that made the first one cringe. Like an avenging fury, he lit upon Frozen Comb and pulled out his proud tail feathers. It was a short battle. The aggressive bully fled, while the rescuer stood upon a hillock, looked at the little tearful bue-eyed boy and crowed.

The child had watched the battle with streaming eyes. One grimy hand clutched the kitchen spoon and anger struggled with fear upon his chubby red face. Then he saw a cornstalk on the ground and ran to get it. It was taller than he was and he brandished it and ran toward the truculent Frozen Comb who was attempting to forget the whole matter behind the straw pile. The bully hesitated, looked at the long stick, and ran. The youngster chased him, and began to smile.

Meanwhile the gallant cock who had staged the rescue sauntered over to the tiny hole the spoon digger had made, looked down and began to cluck. A dozen big white hens came, on the run. Whether there was really a worm, or whether he thought the child needed help, did not appear. Anyhow the hens scratched and pecked and scratched again. The dirt flew. When, after a while, the little boy came back, the excavation had been made considerably larger.

MISHAPS FEWER IN CITY TRAFFIC DURING MONTH

85 Accidents Reported For March; Traffic Citations Climb From 283 to 398.

Mansfield autoists figured in 85 traffic accidents during April, seven less than was reported the month previous, and the number of traffic citations issued by the police department increased from 283 in March to 398 last month.

This was revealed today in the monthly report of activities of the department submitted to Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton by Police Chief Meade K. Bates.

The report showed that nine drivers were cited into court on driving charges, six for reckless operation of their automobiles and three for drunk driving. The total was identical to the number of arrests made in March.

During April, however, an increase of 115 traffic citations, most of which were for overtime parking, was noted in the report.

Collections Increased.

There were 398 tickets issued for traffic violations in April as compared to 283 the month previous. Collections from the tickets also increased, with $437 taken in April as against $290 in March.

In all, police made 113 arrests last month as compared to 80 during the month previous. As usual, approximately 50 per cent, or 66 persons were arrested on charges of intoxication.

Playboy Students Find College Not Easy Life Today

CHICAGO — (INS) — Workaday John has replaced Rowdy-dow Joe in the American collegiate scene, Dr. George A. Works, dean of students at the University of Chicago, claims.

American colleges, he said, are becoming tougher on the playboys who use collegiate life as a backdrop for social rounds.

He told the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools:

"Colleges more and more object to being a dumping ground for aimless youth whose parents don't know what else to do with them. With money to spend and keen for a social life, but with no objective either to learn or to earn, they are more and more recognized as a detriment to the progress of those who are eager for an education and are willing to work.

"The mortality rate among them is heavy—that is, they do not go on to graduation in as great percentage as the workers. And that is a definite handicap to the institution."

SENTENCED ON FIVE CHARGES

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Pleading guilty to five robbery counts, James McClanahan, 25-year-old Mansfield reformatory parolee, heard Judge John R. King sentence him to 50 to 125 years in prison.

Court attaches said it was the severest sentence for robbery in the Franklin county common pleas court in their recollection. Judge King gave McClanahan 10 to 25 years on each of the five counts, the terms to run consecutively.

Even if paroled on each count the prisoner would have to serve a minimum of 35 years, court observers said.

American Relations With Italy at War Discussed

DUCE'S ENVOY CONFERS AT WHITE HOUSE

Ambassador, Sumner Welles Both Silent on Result of Talk With F. D. R.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles and Don Ascanio Dei Principi Colonna, the Italian ambassador to the United States, conferred for 15 minutes at the state department today and then left together for a conference with President Roosevelt at the White House.

They refused to talk to reporters.

Their conference with President Roosevelt lasted 50 minutes. Again neither the ambassador nor Welles would discuss the matter, but Welles, in his role of acting secretary of state during the absence of Cordell Hull, was slated to hold his daily press conference immediately.

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD
(INS Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON — Belief that highly important Italian-American political negotiations bearing upon Italy's participation in the European war are in progress was strengthened today when the Italian ambassador, Don Ascanio Dei Principi Colonna, made appointments to see both President Roosevelt and Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles.

The ambassador's White House appointment was arranged by the state department less than 24 hours after William Phillips, U. S. ambassador in Rome, had held a 30-minute talk with Premier Benito Mussolini.

Observers pointed out that neither the president nor Il Duce usually receive ambassadors except to discuss matters of the utmost gravity.

The White House also announced that Joseph E. Davies, special assistant to the secretary of state in charge of war problems, would see the president immediately after Colonna's departure. This added to the belief that the ambassador sought to discuss with the president American-Italian relations and the possible effect upon them of Italy's entrance into the war.

Shrewd Game.

Astute Washington diplomatic observers believe that Italy is playing a shrewd international game designed to prevent strengthening of Allied navy forces in the Scandinavian war theater in order to help Mussolini's axis partner, Adolf Hitler of Germany.

This was the interpretation placed upon the recent anti-Allied propaganda in the Fascist press and the statements of prominent Italian party leaders, telling the Italian people to be ready for war. Informed officials, however, said they would be very much surprised if Italy went to the armed assistance of Hitler at this time.

While preserving a legal peace, Il Duce is believed to be using his propaganda weapon just as effectively as if it were the Italian fleet. Both Great Britain and France have strong naval forces in the Mediterranean and off Spain. At least some of these ships might be diverted to the North Sea—where they are badly needed to attack German lines of supply or to escort Allied troop ships en route to Norway—Paris and London felt sure that Italy would keep the peace.

That according to observers, is exactly what Mussolini does not want Great Britain and France to feel. So long as Rome, by official intimations that Italy may join Germany in the war can keep the Allies uneasy they will not dare weaken their Mediterranean naval forces.

Phillips is following the tense diplomatic chess game between Italy and the Allies with extreme interest If—contrary to expectations—war should break out in the Mediterranean, United States ships probably would be cut off from their remaining traffic with Europe.

GREED BLAMED

Pope Pius Says "Thirst for Power Caused War.

VATICAN CITY —(AP)— Pope Pius XII blamed "excessive human covetousness and thirst for power" for the war raging in Europe in speaking briefly at St. Peter's today at the canonization of two saints.

Men, blinded by these passions, have "repudiated the laws of God" in loosing the horrors of war, he said.

Two Girls From Nearby Towns Are Queen Prospects

Miss Sarah Lightburn, Crestline, and Mildred L. Hart, Millersburg, were among the six additional candidates named today at Ohio State university in the race for May Queen

Something of a tempest in a teapot was stirred up when it was learned that the original six candidates, elected from a list of 34 nominees from campus organizations, were all from Gamma Phi Lamda sorority.

Helen Bower, Hillsboro, head of the election committee, decided that in the interests of wider campus representation in the race for May Queen, she would name six other co-eds as nominees This is legal under the women's self government association of the university.

The new candidates include Miss Lightburn, Miss Hart, Louise Dinger of Canton, Alice M. Parent, Lima, Dorothy L. Rupp, Columbus, and Mary E Andrews of Columbus.

When Miss Bower announced the new slate, five of the Gamma Phi Lambda girls dropped out of the race to throw their united support to their remaining candidate, Nellie Herron of Columbus.

SET UP PROGRAM FOR CAMPORALL AT LIBERTY PARK IN MID-JUNE

A tentative program for the anual Boy Scout camporall at Liberty park June 13, 14 and 15, was mapped at a meeting of Mansfield scoutmasters and district commissioners last night at scout headquarters in the Elks building.

The first night's program will include motion pictures of scout activities, and a songfest. Scout demonstrations including outdoor activities, handicraft and games, will make up the program the night of June 14. A kittenball tournament will be held on the morning and afternoon of the second day.

About 500 scouts from the Johnny Appleseed area are expected here for the three-day event. C. I. Kimmel, Mansfield, area commissioner, is general chairman in charge of arrangements. The program committee is composed of Philip Smith, J. R. Turner, C. G. Hilber, Fred Elder and Robert Hall.

The entire program will be completed at a meet of camporall officials at scout headquarters May 15. Assisting scout officials with the event are members of the Liberty Park association and City Parks commission.

REVENUE CLIMBS

Sales Tax Returns Make Big Jump But There's Cause.

Sales tax revenue for the week ending April 20 was up 115 per cent over the corresponding week last year, but State Treasurer Don Ebright said the huge gain was deceptive because vendors during last April were permitting their stamp stocks to drop before getting new style stamps.

Sales tax receipts for the week this year were $12,307 as compared to $5,712 for the same week of 1939.

The county's sales tax revenue so far this year totals $162,634, an increase of 25 per cent over first four months of 1939. The gain in Ohio for the same period was slightly over $2,000,000.

SEE DEFEAT OF BIG CHANGE IN WAGE-HOUR LAW

New Dealers Predict Good Chance of Overriding Serious Amendment.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Repeated house votes against sweeping wage-hour amendments led New Deal members to express belief today that they would have a good chance of defeating far-reaching proposals to revise the Wagner Labor act.

Five days of wage-hour arguments, it was learned, have caused them to soft pedal their campaign to prevent the Wagner act controversy from coming before the house.

Although Democratic leaders have not yet placed Wagner act amendments on the calendar, it was considered likely that the subject might come up the week of May 13.

The chief issue before the house as wage-hour debate was resumed today was an amendment which Rep. Buck (D. Calif.) temporarily wrote in yesterday attempting to clarify the present exemption for employes "engaged in agriculture." There have been arguments over the extent of that provision.

Buck said that his proposal would exempt an additional 200,000 workers, mostly in small farm cooperatives which wash, dry, pack and store fruits and vegetables.

But few members appeared to understand what Buck wanted to do, and there was doubt that his proposal would remain in the bill on a final vote, despite the fact it was approved originally 149 to 56.

Two other amendments were tentatively approved yesterday. One wuold permit labor contracts to abrogate the present 42-hour maximum work week, providing that no more than 2,080 hours were worked within a year. The present yearly limit is 2,000. The other would let the wage-hour administrator fix piece-work rates for employes in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Part of the Barden amendments to exempt certain farm processing plants were defeated yesterday for the second time.

While the senate continued debate on the bill to stop the treasury's program of buying foreign silver, Vice President Garner predicted that congress would adjourn by June 8.

Democratic Leader Barkley said that adjournment might come before that date, and Republican Leader McNary expressed a similar view.

STARTS HOUSE NUMBERING JOB

the correction of the marking system when he was in council six years ago, took the job of making the corrections after discussing the proposition with city officials.

Council's street committee had recommended that the changes be made three months ago but had been "stumped" on how to go about making the changes until Bolesky put the proposition to them.

Outlined by him this morning, the plan calls for the notifying residents of incorrect markings and suggesting the placing of correct numbers by property owners.

In 90 days he expects to recheck those places notified and if the correct numbers are not posted he has been authorized by the city to make the changes. The city will pay him for the job and the cost forwarded to the county auditor to be put on the property owners' tax duplicate

It has been estimated that there are some 5,000 improper numbers in the city. The move climaxes several years of agitation in council to get the house numbers straightened out.

Picture Show—A motion picture show including educational and comedy films, will be held at 7.30 p. m. Friday at the Friendly House, Russell Gimbel, director, announced today.

Parents Can Help Courting

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

To the girl entering her teens, and for years thereafter, the desire to attract boy admirers is an urge as normal as for her to breathe and take food, and fulfillment of this desire is about as essential to her peace of mind and happiness.

Today the daughter can take much more initiative in courting than her grandmother could when she was a girl, or even her mother could, and she usually has a wider range on which to ply her lures. Nevertheless, even during Leap Year, she is restrained in her courting quest by social customs from "taking the offensive" as freely as her brother can. In all her "sallies" she must be very adroit, else she defeat her purposes. Boys and young men, even today, don't cherish being "chased." They still prefer to be wooers and pursuers.

Parents Can Help.

Since her best procedure requires adroitness and finesse, her mother, whose memories and observations ought to serve her well, is in a very strategic position to help her daughter. Mothers looking for outlets of creative genius should find it here in abundance. Dads also have a place.

Unfortunately, most parents seem to think their functions are solely those of restraint and protection of the daughter. While these are essential functions, they rarely operate well unless they accompany the wider constructive and promotive functions. Parents who skilfully set the stage so as to make it easy for the daughter to attract desirable boy friends may have need of little or no concern about restraining and protecting this daughter in her courting quest. As she feels assured of the sympathetic co-operation of her father and mother, she naturally inclines to co-operate with them in standards that are reasonable.

Her parents have done well for her if from babyhood they have brought her up to be considerate of the rights and feelings of others, and taught her how to get along happily with playmates; if they have helped her gain the essential social skills and social graces during her development; if they have made her home a welcome place for many other children, boys and girls.

Increase Friends.

As the daughter has grown more selective in her choice of friends, her wise parents have aided her in attracting to the home an increasing number of boys and girls and in going to wholesome places where she can meet still more of them. One of the biggest contributions by parents to a daughter's courting quest is to increase the number of wholesome youths she will meet and have opportunity to mingle with.

When "dates" begin, her parents have no end of opportunities to play a favorable role. Some day we will have college courses and handbooks for parents on the art of co-operating in their son's and daughter's interests of the heart. We parents certainly are tested for our skill, wisdom and inner worth when our daughter goes a-courting.

A list of books on marriage, education and preparation for marriage, and how to make a go of it, may be had by writing me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"WELL!" Lillian exclaimed in surprise as Katherine took the cup of steaming milk from her hand. "Of all the high-handed, high-hatting dames this side of—"

"Soft-pedal!" Katherine answered easily. "You know you're mighty glad to see me, so please give me room."

"The children?" I asked.

"Safe as seven churches," she said. "I parked Miss Whitlock with them until I got back. She volunteered to come over here in my stead and give you first aid treatment, but I sort of wanted to tend to you myself. So turn over with your face in the pillow."

She flashed me an affectionate smile, and as I turned prone at her command, I felt the little lump in my throat which Katherine's loyal devotion always brings to me.

"If I hurt you, yell," she said "Not that I'll stop thumping you, but it will help you relax, and that's what you need. Lil, will you watch that milk, please? I think it's going to stay hot enough, but if it doesn't you'll have to heat some more and get another sedative."

"That's where you're wrong wise little dame," Lillian gibed "I haven't put the sedative in yet. I only have to reheat the milk on this tiny grill in the corner if it's necessary, which I doubt, unless you mean to keep on kneading that poor darling until she's black and blue."

"No, only until these muscles relax," Katherine answered, her fingers leaving my scalp and beginning on my neck. "I don't think it will be long now."

She was a true prophet. It was but a few minutes before the vigorous massage broke down the resistance of my tautened nerves, and the hot milk with the sedative completed the conquest. I remember drowsily saying goodnight to my two loyal friends, and then I remembered nothing more.

I slept soundly all through the night, and wakened only at my usual hour. As I lifted myself on my pillow to look at by bedside clock. I saw Lillian smiling lazily at me.

"I was terribly tempted to call you," she said. "I felt so virtuous myself about waking without an alarm clock. But I didn't have the heart to waken you. The Seven Sleepers had nothing on you last night."

"I trust I didn't sleep soundly enough to disturb you," I said smiling.

"No, you didn't snore," she said with a gamin grin. "At least you weren't working the buzz saw when I came to bed late last night, and you weren't this morning when I wakened. In between, I know not. I was too soundly asleep myself."

My attention focused on the phrase "late last night," and I put a correllative question.

"Did Harry get back?" Iasked.

Twist Fatty Cells Away

By MME QUI VIVE

Fashion says "Have curves where they belong; be reedy in the middle." You are permitted to carry normal hips and you are urged to cultivate a firm, rounded bust. You must have the trim waistline for contrast. We're out for lines. Lovely, luscious lines that form a pleasing, graceful silhouette.

Every woman who has taken on a little more weight than she needs has discouraging sessions with the tape measure. It would be a wonderful satisfaction to nip off even half an inch. It can be done. Believe it or curl up the nose, the habit of standing tall and holding in the abdominal muscles will do it. Many a bulging equator got that way through poor posture. Muscles had no work to do. They sagged and there you are!

Unless muscles are active they are likely to collect fat cells. Keep them busy, taking exercise of some kind each day, and they will retain their youthful elasticity. Movie stars know all about that. Many of them are demon gym workers.

The old fashioned stunt of touching the floor without bending the knees tones the fibers of the mid-section. It must be done with a rousing old muscle pull at the waist. Lift the hands high above the head, palms outward. As the hands are lifted, go up on the toes, stretching the torso. Keep the legs rigid. Touch the floor with the fingers, coming down on your heels. It is the uppull, rather than the downward movement that accomplishes the figure slithering.

Here is another exercise that is recommended:

Take the soldier's position, chin level, head balanced, chest high, tummy flat. Clasp the hands above the head; stretch the arms. Turn to the right, pivoting at the waistline. Bend downward, touching the finger tips to the right knee. Five times. Then to the left and repeat.

All bending, twisting and swaying movements are helpful. The point is to pull up the upper portion of the body, as if you were trying to tear yourself apart at the belt line. If there's a roll of fat lurking beneath your ribs, these movements will dispel it in course of time.

Sit on the floor with hands back of the buttocks. Pull in the abdominal muscles, send the lower portion of the torso from side to side with a rolling movement. The effort of doing that will be thrown directly on the muscles of the waist, will strengthen and tighten them, reduce measurements.

Tidbits For Sunday Tea Party

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

Why not choose some Sunday afternoon for a party that is easy to handle—a tea party? It's a swell way to entertain, pay off old favors and greet friends. An extremely pleasant social gesture, once in great favor, the tea party is now making a come-back.

Fragile china, colorful linens, your best silver or porcelain tea service; refreshments dainty and tidbits substantial make up a pretty picture for a Sunday tea party.

Various melba toasts with a variety of spreads are popular nowadays. A good spread is made with a half and half mixture of white cream cheese and roquefort cheese, with a dash of minced onions, green olives and a few drops of a tangy sauce.

Pimiento and Ginger.

Another good mixture is a half cup of finely-chopped pimiento with one tablespoon of minced ginger. Blend with enough cream to moisten and garnish with crisp bacon bits.

A third favorite starts with two hard-boiled eggs. Chop together with a teaspoon of finely-minced onion and to this add one-half cup chicken livers, also finely chopped. Mix well, season to taste and moisten with a little cream. Parsley is the proper garnish.

Avocado makes a noble spread when it's well mashed and pepped up with the juice of grapefruit, lemon or lime, plus salt. For a special treat, lay the avocado spread over a thin slice of tomato on a piece of melba toast.

Orange Bread is good at a tea party. Make it with two tablespoons shortening, four tablespoons sugar, one egg, two cups cake flour, three teaspoons baking powder, teaspoon salt, one cup orange juice, teaspoon grated orange rind and one cup chopped nuts. Blend shortening, sugar and egg, then beat well. Add flour sifted with baking powder and salt. Add orange juice and grated rind. Beat until smooth, then add nut meats. Turn into greased bread pan and bake at 325 degrees F. for one hour.

For sandwiches of the more substantial type, spread white or brown bread with chopped ham, veal or beef and make tangy watercress sandwiches. Trim crusts, roll up the slices, and spike with colored wood picks to look as well as taste good. Sandwiches and spreads can be made in advance and kept in the refrigerator in waxed paper.

When the weather warms up, serve Frostee, which is made with one quart freshly-brewed tea, 12 mint sprigs, six teaspoons powdered sugar, six whole cloves, six tablespoons lemon ice and one bottle carbonated water. Pour the freshly-brewed hot tea over 12 mint leaves that have been crushed in six teaspoons powdered sugar. Add six whole cloves, and crushed ice to chill. Serve in tall frosted glasses three-quarters filled with spiced tea mixture. Add to each glass one tablespoon of cool lemon ice. Top off with carbonated water and garnish with mint leaves.

"The Authority on Authorities"

THANKS TO THE ENEMY

Have you ever had the play of a hand all planned? And then have the opponents upset your scheme by the kind of defense they offered? Then all at once it bursts upon you that they have forced you into using a different one, which is better than the original one anyway. And, as you put it into execution, you find that it produces an extra trick for you, whereas your original plan could not have done more than barely make the contract, even if it worked.

West led the diamond 7 to the J and A. Expecting to lose a diamond, a club and possibly a spade, South prepared to avoid a losing heart finesse by setting up a club honor for the discard of a heart, so led his club 7 to the K and A. When East then returned the spade 2, the finesse losing to the K and the 7 coming back, South saw he never would be able to ruff out either losing diamond. He would have to try to park them on established clubs and would have to make the heart finesse.

When he won that second trump lead with dummy's Q, he cashed the club Q for one diamond discard, ruffed the club 3, settled the hostile trumps with the spade A, then led the heart J. When West covered with the K, he came up with the A, ruffed another club, went back to dummy with the heart Q and on the now set-up club 8 tossed his last diamond. This left him only two trumps, so he made five-odd, thanks to the friendly enemy.

Shepherd's Purse Rich in Seeds.

Lawns which have been treated for dandelion control with iron or copper sulfate are about the only grass areas which can be counted upon to be free from the danger of infestation by Shepherd's Purse. This prolific weed thrives in almost any soil in any part of the country.

Shepherd's Purse, shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph, is not only rich in seeds, but it produces them from April until December. A single plant is capable of producing 50,000 seeds.

It is important to prevent a weed such as Shepherd's Purse from going to seed, for the seeds of this pest are capable of growth even after lying dormant for many years. Often when an old lawn is spaded over, the dormant seeds of Shepherd's Purse will be brought to the surface, where they germinate and start a new infestation.

Shepherd's Purse is an annual, and the plant, therefore, can be destroyed by digging it out or cutting it off below the crown before it goes to seed.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, May 3.

The lunar and mutual aspects for this day point to fairly active conditions in a business way, but with much important movement in all relations of a group nature. These will be accelerated with high pressure force where corporations, political or fraternal organizations are involved, but they also are beset with questionable or dubious entanglements of a rather treacherous aspect, read as subtle as well as sinister. Some unexpected friendly interest may benefit. With precaution there should be definite progress and profit.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a progressive and productive year, with advancement, enhanced fortunes and growing business and much expansion in several directions, especially in group interest or affiliation. But such fine prospects are beset with trickery and deceit from sinister and underhand alliances. Strange and subtle situations complicate. Seek support from influential friends or other personages inpower and authority.

A child born on this day may have great versatility and unusual talent, with much subtlety and imagination. Although genial, gracious, cultured and humane, it may have depths of character difficult to fathom. It may be an idealist or humanitarian, liking social science or uplift movements.

REVEALS ALLIES LEAVE CENTRAL NORWAY SECTOR

Chamberlain Says Germany's Power Superior; Delivers Warning to Italy.

deal a knockout blow, presumably by air.

Chamberlain pointed out that Germany holds a central position.

"We know the enemy hold a central position. They have immense forces always mounted and ready for an attack," he asserted, "which can be launched with lightning rapidity on any one of many fields.

"It may be their savage hordes will be hurled against innocent neighbors in southeast Europe."

Tells of Battle Plans.

The Germans might make any one of a number of possible moves, he said, asserting hat Germany has preparations "for an attempt at a large scale attack on the west front or even a lightning swoop on this country."

Chamberlain asserted that Germany had no scruples against invading either Belgium or Holland or both.

He said that only a single phase of the Norwegian campaign had been concluded "wherein it is safe to say that if we have not achieved our objective neither have the Germans achieved theirs while their losses are far greater than ours.

He asked that the house defer its comment on his revelations until next Thursday when a general debate will be held on the conduct of the war.

The commons which had awaited his address in sullen, worried mood rang with cheers at the conclusion of his brief address. Applause punctuated his speech, particularly when he announced that the battle fleet has been concentrated in the eastern Mediterranean, obviously to meet any threat that should arise from a sudden Italian move to go to war at Germany's side.

Despite abandonment of the central Norwegian Allied position and the foreclosure of any present Allied hope of capturing Trondheim from the Germans, Chamberlain assured commons that Norway was not a mere "sideshow."

A pale light filtered through the dusty leaded windows of the ancient panelled commons chamber as Chamberlain spoke and lighted his worn face. At his side sat Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, and senior defense officer.

Next week, Chamberlain said, he hoped that he and Churchill might give to commons a full story of the Norwegian operations to date.

Chamberlain warned that the German blitzkrieg may strike next in any direction. Germany, he reminded, holds the central position in this war. She has made preparations, he asserted, which may or may not be carried out for a large scale attack on the western front.

No such move, he was certain, would catch Britain off guard. Plans have been made for any eventuality and disposition of Allied forces undertaken accordingly. Despite apparent initial German successes in Norway he predicted that the advantage in the long run lies with the Allies.

Lack Air Bases.

He attributed the withdrawal from the positions south of Trondheim to inability of Allied forces to land sufficient artillery and heavy material in the face of German air power. The Allies, he noted, lacked air bases for the protection of their operations.

Despite the cheers in commons today there is certain to be criticism—probably severe and vigorous—when the debate on Britain's war effort is held Tuesday.

Lord Snell, laborite leader in the house of lords, indicated this plainly when he arose after hearing a statement to the upper chamber by Lord Hankey which paralleled Chamberlain's remarks to the lower house.

The opposition, Snell said, "is far from happy" concerning certain events in Norway and the preparations made to deal with them.

The prime minister said that the withdrawal was made "under the very noses of German airplanes."

"It was decided last week we must abandon any idea of taking Trondheim from the south and must therefore withdraw our troops from that area and transfer them elsewhere," he said.

Chamberlain's statement meant that the fighting front had shifted northward to the front north of Trondheim at Steinkjer.

Chamberlain also said that the British and French battle fleet was already in the eastern basin of the Mediterranean Ocean en route to Alexandria.

Claim British Flee 'Head Over Heels.'

BERLIN—(AP)—Germany today reported British forces in Norway in a "head over heels" withdrawal in the strategic Andalsnes region and the capture of 3,500 Norwegian officers and men by German columns which succeeded in establishing an unbroken line from Bergen to Oslo in southern Norway.

The high command said German vanguards had driven to about 25 miles southeast of Andalsnes, British base 100 miles south of Trondheim, capturing 300 Norwegian troops in the operation as well as "enormous quantities of British supplies" at Dombas, railway junction in the interior southeast of Andalsnes and southwest of Trondheim.

DNB, official German news agency, in a report from the front later said that fights around Andalsnes "no longer offer a difficult military problem" and a thrust on that base now appears to be one of the main German objectives.

OHIOANS FIGHT AERIAL CHANGE

Taft And Harter Opposed To Roosevelt Proposal.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R.-Ohio) and Rep. Dow Harter (D.-Ohio) are opposed to President Roosevelt's proposal to transfer the civil aeronautics authority to the commerce department.

Taft termed the plan an attempt to "put aviation back into politics."

awarded ground course certificates by the government.

The flight course for the Mansfield area students is part of the CAA's program to train 30 civilian pilots in the state. Mansfield was selected several months ago by State Director of Aeronautics Earl Johnson, as one of the three training centers in Ohio.

The course of instruction supplements a similar program that was started earlier in several colleges throughout the nation.

James R. "Bud" Harrington, airport manager and the government's flight instructor, urged the group last night to continue their flight training.

"Aviation holds a future for you young people," he asserted, predicting that the "next great boom" this country would experience would be in that field.

Major E. H. Jose, of Chicago, private flying specialist for the CAA and Johnson had been scheduled to address the meeting but were unable to attend.

Dr. L. D. Bonar, past president of the chapter and chairman of the Chamber of Commerce' aeronautics committee complimented the students on the grades attained by them in the ground school exams.

He said that of the 30 trained in the state and among the 400 others at colleges in Ohio, government authorities had pointed out that the Mansfield group had the highest average of any.

Brief talks were also made by John W. Graham, general manager of The Mansfield News-Journal and John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce. Norman Kann, president of the chapter presided.

The 10 high ranking students who will participate in the flight instruction providing they pass the physical exam are:

NEW FEAR OF WAR'S SPREAD HITS RUMANIA

or some sort of "fifth column" disturbance or both, but it was known that the government had hurriedly sent troops to such strategic places as airdromes, communications headquarters, oil fields, radio stations and public buildings, and that 8,000 picked gendarmes had been rushed into Transylvania to assist local police.

The direct plot against Rumania, if one existed, apparently had been dealt with satisfactorily and the Mediterranean situation temporarily was the center of attention.

Many Rumanians believed that the overtures to Italy last week by France's Premier Paul Reynaud were the allies' last peaceful gesture toward Benito Mussolini, and since he apparently had rejected them, Britain and France now were determined to force him to "put up or shut up."

Show Down.

It was believed here that influential circles in both France and Britain hoped Mussolini would decide to "put up." If joining Germany in the war would immediately bring Turkey in on the side of the allies. The allies have a treaty with Turkey providing that she will assist them in any war in the Mediterranean. Turkey's entrance in the war would bring the storm to all southeastern Europe.

The "fifth column" or "Trojan horse" rumors gained some credence when police submitted to the ministry of interior yesterday the names of 300 persons recommended for expulsion from the country. A large majority of them were said to be German agents, some in disguise.

Russia's attitude toward Rumania, especially toward Bessarabia, a section of Russia given to Rumania as a result of the World war, was another factor in nervousness here. A Jugaslav trade mission stopped here a few days ago en route to Moscow and it was understood that the possibility of war in the Balkans was discussed.

Some Rumanian circles heard that Russia had agreed to renounce all claims on Bessarabia for the duration of the war if Rumania promised to aid Jugoslavia in the event of an attack by Italy. However, it was feared here that if Rumania entered such an agreement, Germany would aid Hungary in an attack on Transylvania.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said there has been no set rule for paying workers while disabled, but that in cases where the employes have been off, payment has been left to the discretion of department heads.

He also explained that all city employes are covered by the workmen's compensation insurance, required by law, which entitles the workers to payment of medical and hospital services by the state.

Water department repairmen two months ago petitioned city officials to make changes in working schedules in the department.

NEW RELATION WITH ICELAND UPSETS TREND

Diplomatic Front Opened for Washington Observers by Hull Agreement.

By ANDRUE BERDING
(AP Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—Establishment of diplomatic relations between the United States and Iceland may mean little from a material viewpoint, but its psychological effect here has been considerable.

On the surface it means merely initiation of relations with an island of only 120,000 persons and a total import and export trade with the United States of but $1,500,000 a year.

But underneath it means a reversal, for the moment at least, in the trend of disappearing diplomats, embassies and legations; the rise of Iceland to a new status with a foreign service of its own; a direct link between the United States and the country from which, so historic legend says, Leif Ericson, son of Eric the Red, discovered North America; and the possibility of multiplying trade with the island several times.

When Secretary Hull and the prime minister of Iceland exchanged telegrams agreeing to the opening of diplomatic relations, officials here were curiously affected by the announcement.

They had been seeing for two years the vanishing of one country after another in Europe and Africa, the elimination of one diplomat after another, the concentrating of foreign relations in fewer big European capitals.

There was Ethiopia; there were Austria and Czechoslovakia; there were Albania and Poland; and now who knows about Denmark; and what about Norway.

Then out of the far north rose Iceland. It was an appearance, not a disappearance.

Sentimentally, relations between the United States and Iceland have been of the very best for many years. Ten years ago the American government presented a statue of Leif Ericson to the government of Iceland.

In the latter part of the 19th century many Icelanders emigrated to the United States and Canada.

Since the outbreak of the present war, Iceland has turned to the western market, chiefly the United States. She is increasing her purchases here and her own ships are sailing to American ports to carry goods to Iceland. She is hoping to raise the volume of her exports to the American market, particularly fish and fish products like cod-liver oil.

Until now Denmark has been entrusted with the conduct of Iceland's foreign affairs. Although independent, Iceland is subject to the Danish king.

EXPERIMENTING IN TELEPATHY

BOSTON — (NS) — Telepathy—the transfer of mental images between individuals—is now undergoing a series of experiments.

The Boston Society for Psychic Research has made public a report of the experiments which involved 150 persons in 107 cities scattered over 25 states. More than 1200 tests were made and from ten to fifteen per cent of those who took part claimed success in the transmission of objects.

The Boston headquarters where weekly tests are held calls for all persons involved to do the "concentrating" on Tuesday afternoon (5:30). The concentration goes on for fifteen minutes.

Business Plans Campaign Year Self-Defense Program

MODIFICATION OF LABOR LAW WINS SUPPORT

Strict Neutrality Guarded By Strong Armed Force Urged By Chamber.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The U. S. Chamber of Commerce ends its four-day annual meeting today with adoption of a campaign year "business defense" program calling for reform of federal finances, modification of labor and securities legislation and strict neutrality guarded by a strong armed force.

The program, in the form of resolutions based on suggestions submitted by member organizations and permanent chamber committees, was drafted at a meeting of the resolutions committee. It will be presented to the general session today.

Before adjourning, the meeting is scheduled to elect James S. Kemper, of Chicago, president of the Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty company, as president of the national chamber. He will succeed W. Gibson Carey, jr., of New York, president of the Yale & Towne Manufacturing company.

Closely Guarded.

The resolutions to be presented for adoption were guarded closely, but it was learned they concerned neutrality, federal spending, labor relations and wage-hour laws, foreign trade, government competition and banking.

The committee also considered a proposal by the Indianapolis chamber of commerce that the national chamber urge congress to enact laws making it a criminal offense to advocate violent overthrow of the federal government. It could not be learned whether this would be presented for adoption.

Another recommended resolution condemns prolongation of the government's easy money policy "which threatens the whole system of private savings and private enterprise."

Labor Amendments.

The meeting was expected to go on record in support of amendments to the national labor relations act proposed by Chairman Howard W. Smith of the special house committee investigating the labor board.

The closing session heard a warning from Philip C. Ebeling, Dayton, O., past president of the U. S. junior chamber of commerce, that if business and industry does not make available economic opportunity and security, the government will be asked to do it.

"Wise business statesmanship recognizes this tendency and takes the leadership in making voluntary changes that will prevent sudden and radical upheavals," he said. Many leading businessmen today discovered the wisdom of such a course years ago and so conducted their businesses. Unforunately, they must suffer today from the excesses of too many 'chiselers' in business."

Townsend Hopes To Get Pension At 48 Age Mark

BOSTON — (INS) — Pensions for citizens over 48 years old today was revealed as the new goal set by Dr. Francis E. Townsend, sponsor of the plan to provide $200 monthly federal pensions to those over 60 years old.

Dr. Townsend made known his new plan in an address before 1,100 followers at a meeting in Faneuil hall.

"The plan is not going to solve all our national problems, but it will solve unemployment," he said.

Passage of the Townsend plan by congress was predicted within a year by Dr. Townsend, who urged his audience to send only those candidates favorable to the plan to congress in the fall elections.

Ohio Congressman Faces Federal Charges

KIRWAN ENTERS INNOCENT PLEA TO ACCUSATION

Blames Politics for Warrant on 'Soliciting Funds' From Postmasters.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — U. S. District Attorney Emerich B. Freed asked Washington authorities today to investigate charges— filed under an obscure federal statute—that Congressman Michael J. Kirwin of Youngstown solicited campaign contributions from two postmasters in 1938.

The charges are contained in four warrants issued by Justice of the Peace Howard Burke of Saybrook township, Ashtabula county, on affidavits filed by Joseph W. Gottlieb of Youngstown.

"We forwarded a transcript of the proceedings to the Attorney General," said Francis Kavanagh, Assistant U. S. District Attorney. "We suggested an investigation by proper officials, probably postal authorities, as to the facts alleged.

Await Findings.

"Their findings will determine whether the matter shall be submitted to a federal grand jury."

Burke filed his records in federal court by mail yesterday. Attaches said it was the first time in district records that a justice of the peace had issued warrants charging federal violations.

Kavanaugh said Burke invoked an 1896 statute which grants justices limited jurisdiction in federal offenses. The law provides that a justice may cause the accused to be arrested, jailed and bound to federal district court under bond.

Kirwin appeared before Burke April 27, pleaded innocent and waived preliminary examination. The justice bound him to federal court under $500 on each of four charges. The court lacks jurisdiction pending affirmative action by the federal grand jury.

Arrested Before.

Kirwin, a Democrat who is seeking re-election, blamed political opponents for his arrest.

"They arrested me in 1936 and in 1938," he said.

Gottlieb's affidavits, incorporated in the formal charges, allege the congressman "directly or indirectly" solicited $300 from Postmaster George E. Calhoun of Geneva and $250 from Postmaster L. D. Whitwood of Jefferson as "assessments, subscriptions or contributions" to his 1938 election campaign. He is charged with receiving $50 from Calhoun as "part payment."

Kirwin and Edwin H. Gensler of Struthers, his 1938 campaign committee chairman, are charged jointly in two warrants with conspiring to solicit the money. Gensler is accused of directly demanding the sums and threatening to have their postoffice positions thrown open to competitive examinations on their failure to pay. One warrant charges this occurred in Whitwood's case.

POISON BLAMED

Ptomaine Is Cause of Death of Galion Candidate.

GALION — Ptomaine poisoning was blamed today for the death of Raymond Burt Ackerman, 64, candidate for state senator in the Democratic primaries this month and for 30 years Ohio legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers.

Ackerman and his wife became ill last Friday after eating soup believed to have been tainted. Mrs. Ackerman is still confined in Galion hospital, her husband was released Monday but died last night as a result of complications which a physician described as due to a diabetic condition.

Besides the widow, one son, Rev. E. G. Ackerman, Coldwater, and a sister, Mrs. Daisy Shepard, Galion, survive. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the home and continued at Trinity Lutheran church. Rev. E. J. Albrecht will officiate. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

RITES FRIDAY

Samuel Was Native of Rumania Where Son Still Lives.

Samuel Bobo, rear 15 Reymiller street, died Wednesday afternoon at the Mansfield General hospital. He was born in Rumania, but has resided in Mansfield for the past 26 years.

Surviving are one son, Paul, two grandchildren, and a brother, all of Rumania. Funeral services will be held at the Geiger funeral home Friday at 2 p. m. in charge of Rev. Pzanos Goygorpas, of the Greek Orthodox church. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

Up and Down THE STREET

Among other services of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce is its assistance to the nation's hobbyists. The past week John G. Routzon, secretary, says he received requests from a Chicago collector for bus tokens used by the Mansfield Rapid Transit company, and a request from Omaha, Neb., hobbyist for brewery labels of the Renner-Webber and M. Frank and Sons breweries. Both requests were filled.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates still maintains that "safety first" is the best remedy for "first aid," but since the officers in the police department have completed an advanced course in first aid instruction, all cruisers have been equipped with first aid kits to be used in case of emergency.

Mansfield baseball fans who attended the inaugural between the Mansfield Braves and the Lima Pandas at the Fairground last night were disappointed with the performance of "Lightning," the Braves' dusky head ball chaser. "Lightning" decked out in a nifty new red, white and blue uniform, decided to take the warmup pitches from Dick Green in the sixth inning. Green tossed him four easy catches—but "Lightning" failed to catch any of them. And every time he missed the roar of the crowd became louder. Maybe he was rattled.

* * *

An interesting an unusual hobby is found in the collection of bells on display at the Public library this week. They have been collected by Mrs. David N. Roller, 785 Andover road, and come from China, Japan, Java, Switzerland, France and Palestine. Among them is an old school bell once used to call children to a one-room Richland county school, a small "turkey-bell" from Missouri, which was used to give the whereabouts of a nesting turkey hen.

OHIOAN ADMITS SHOOTING WIFE

Farmer Says Gun Discharged Accidentally; Saw Hired Man 'Loving' Her.

DOVER—(AP)—Roy Kail, crippled farmer who confessed slaying his 48-year-old wife after watching her kiss and embrace a hired man in their barn, declared today that he shot her accidentally.

Kail, 53, told Sheriff Wayne T. Host that he stationed himself at a "peephole" and watched his attractive wife and Roy Jones, 48, their farm hand.

"He was loving her, putting his arms around her and kissing her," Kail said. He said he ordered Jones to come out of the barn.

"It's awful to make a mistake like that," the farmer sobbed in his cell. "Nellie was a good wife. She worked hard on our farm. The gun must have gone off accidentally when she ran toward me to grab it."

Mrs. Kail died a half-hour after being shot in the stomach.

Sheriff Host took Kail to the farm home yesterday, where the husband reenacted the shooting. The sheriff said he would question the two men further before filing formal charges. Kail is now being held "for investigation" and Jones as a material witness.

The Kails lived on an 88-acre farm near Gilmore, 23 miles south of here. Kail, a former railroad fireman, and his wife had been married 29 years. They have no children.

He has been crippled five years by paralysis in one arm and one leg.

NEW LIFE FOR WOMAN AGED 95

Widow Quits Work On Getting $10,000 Inheritance.

ELGIN, Ill.—(INS)—At the age of 95, Mrs. Mary Jacobs today looked forward to a new life.

For the past 30 years Mrs. Jacobs, a widow, has earned her living by washing and sewing and caring for her neighbors' children. But she hopes all that is changed now. Notified that a brother had died in Brodhead, Wis., leaving her $10,000, she said, happily:

"Now perhaps I can take it easier, and do some of the things I've always wanted to do."

CHANGE FUNERAL

JOHNSVILLE — Funeral services for John Wesley Haldeman, 81, who died Wednesday at his home, will be held Friday at 3 p. m. instead of at 2:30 p. m. as previously arranged. The body will be removed to the Snyder funeral home in Johnsville at noon Friday. Rev. E. T. Shepard of the Grace Evangelical church and Rev. John C. Searl of Shelby will conduct the services. Burial will be made in Shauck cemetery.

DAVEY LAUNCHES NEW ATTACK ON BRICKER HIGHWAY POLICY

COLUMBUS—Democratic candidates for nominations to state posts continued their attacks upon Governor Bricker today as they campaigned in various parts of the state for support in the May 14 rimary.

The latest verbal barrage came from former Gov. Martin L. Davey, one of seven candidates for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Former Gov. George White, one of the seven, recently flayed Bricker in a Columbus speech.

Addressing a group in Zanesville, Davey charged that "state highways in Ohio have been damaged to the extent of $25,000,000 as a result of Bricker's false economy and inefficiency." He added that damage was caused by failure to remove snow promptly.

At Sandusky, 800 Republicans and Democrats turned out for a party in honor of the birthday of James F. Flynn, "native son" candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor. Flynn was 53.

Flynn advocated a new industrial commission setup, improvements in the state's road building program, and more funds for conservation purposes.

Saturday, members of the Ohio Federation of Republican Women will gather in Columbus to discuss campaign issues and to meet candidates for various offices.

The principal speaker will be Mrs. Frances P. Bolton, of Cleveland, who recently was elected Ohio's first woman representative in congress.

At Wooster college, 30 students formed a club to seek support for Congressman Dudley A. Whitte, of Norwalk, in his campaign for the Republican nomination for U. S. senator.

Laff-a-Day

"He's BEING punished. I took the ax away from him."

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

They All Dance.

If the roar of the Broadway crowds died down, if the traffic stopped, if the orchestras muted their trumpets and hushed their drums, the ear of the town would be able to hear another sound. It would be a rhythm more than a noise, and it would go tap-tap, slide-slide, and shuffle shuffle. . . . It would be the music of a thousand and two feet tapping patterns on the parquet—the symphony of the way. It would be the hardest work. Terpsichore's disciples on Broadway in show business polishing up their dance routines and delivering them to the people who applaud.

Often the lads who dance are the forgotten men of the footlight world. The lives and loves of the chorus girls consume miles of type in the newspapers, but the male hoofers—even the stars— seem to have got lost in the glamorous shadow of the girls who kick high.

Hal LeRoy is a hit with audiences the minute he hooks out on a stage because he looks like the kid next door. He is tall and skinny and loose-limbed and he dances with a furious bashfulness; and when his routine is finished he leaves the stage with a quick, shy gesture that implies he doesn't know what he was doing out there, anyhow. All his dances look ad libbed.

Onstage, he looks about 19, but he must be older, for he has been married for six years to Ruth Dodd, a former actress and Powers model, and he has been entertaining Broadway audiences for ten.

He is anything but the accepted version of a Broadway guy. He lives in New Jersey, likes to go marketing with his wife, and is one of the best dish-dryers extant. Claims he never dropped a saucer. He has a collection of model boats and another of miniature railroads that occupies (with its 375 feet of track) a whole floor of their home in Maywood. He has also managed to become a licensed plane pilot, which should make him some sort of composite authority on transportation.

He is one of the best bowlers in show business, with an average close to 200. Ruth is teaching him swimming in return for dancing lessons. They have a dancing mat in their cellar.

Hal does a buck and wing out of bed every morning at 10:30, takes his prize collie, Sunnybank Roy (from the kennels of Albert Payson Terhune) for a brisk walk, then returns to breakfast. It's always the same breakfast —orange juice, scrambled eggs, toast and bacon. For dinner he likes roast beef, rare.

He wears white shirts, but once in a while buys a wild-looking tie, wears it until he gets the first startled criticism, then discards it. Sometimes his wife's criticism beats the tie to its first appearance.

* * *

Charles Walters, who is teamed with Betty Grable in "Du Barry Was a Lady," has winged across stages with such glamor girls as June Knight, Dorothy Fox, Mitzi Mayfair, Vilma Ebsen, and Audrey Christie, and managed to hold up his end of the fan mail. He is a blue-eyed, handsome young man who looks rather like a brunette Duke of Windsor, and is a great asset to musical shows where dialogue is required of him, for he acts better than any dancer around.

He looks gay on a stage, and he is. He and Betty Grable enjoy their routines so much they occasionally break up the act by giggling at each other.

But this intermittent involuntary mischief is nothing compared to the moments in "The Show Is On" when, with Mitzie Mayfair perched tenderly on his lap singing "Little Old Lady," he burped! Nor does it approach the time in "I Married An Angel" when he stopped Vivienne Segal and the show in general by crossing the stage in complete oblivion as his trousers lowered themselves to half mast.

He lives alone in an apartment that has a maid to do his cooking and encourage him, with little success, to keep regular hours. He's crazy about night clubs, and usually lights out for a little dancing at LaMartinique, the Rainbow Room, or the Stork, as soon as the final curtain comes down.

His ambition is to get married and live in Hollywood, two things which if I remember correctly, have nothing to do with each other.

Paul Haakon is one of the few men in this country who have been commercially successful at the ballet. Currently he is dancing seven nights a week at the Persian Room of the Plaza and rehearsing six hours a day for "American Jubilee" at the Fair, in which he will be the dancing star.

He is a slight, blond, semi-angelic looking young man who came here from Denmark 14 years ago and has spent the last ten or so years correcting people who think he's still in his teens. He's actually around 30, has a wife, a baby and a farm in Connecticut.

Paul has a brother and sister in Denmark, but he has had no word of them since December. . . . His name is pronounced "Hay-kon," but no one ever does.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—For today's embarrassing predicament I nominate Republic studios and the gentlemen concerned with a movie entitled "Doctors Don't Tell."

They bought the magazine story, and then they started to film it. It is about a refugee doctor (Charles Coburn) and his pretty daughter (Sigrid Gurie) who come to America and find themselves wanted in the Dust Bowl. Sigrid finds herself wanted, in time, by the handsome farmer (John Wayne), and romance flourishes.

Well, the thing is getting along famously. There's only one drawback. As the story progresses, it bears less and less resemblance to the story which inspired it. The title has no bearing whatever, which ordinarily doesn't bother anybody around the picture business. However they like the title. They want to keep it. And what are they going to do about it?

"We're going to work the title in—somehow, somewhere—before the picture's finished," they'll tell you.

That reminds me of this studio's epic of last year, which began as "Wagons Westward." That's a good title, but they didn't want one that sounded like just another western. They made it "Man of Conquest" and now, if you look over the production sheet, you'll see "Wagons Westward" listed. It's another story and another cast.

I FOUND the master DeMille in a genial mood on the set of his new epic, and we got to talking about Indians. He is using plenty of them in "North West Mounted Police," and he is concerned about Indians.

"There are just about a hundred full-blooded Indians left for pictures," he informed me sadly.

"Only a hundred?" It made me sad, too. "What has happened?"

"Beer," said the Master cryptically, and waited.

"Beer?" I came through obligingly.

"Beer. There are strong-armed Indians—with fat paunches. The Indians of the plains had strong arms—and no paunches. They never had heard of Milwaukee."

AS ONE of the earliest members of the Madeleine Carroll-for-Queen club, I think a protest is in order. Here is that blonde beauty in a picture again (it's DeMille's) with unfair competition. She can stand it, but here she is playing a well-bred, gentle role in a movie that has Paulette Goddard flashing around as a wildcat half-breed.

It's like putting Venus de Milo on a set with Lupe Velez. You may admire Venus, but Lupe wouldn't let you watch anybody else. And then there was "My Son My Son!" Madeleine was nice and beautiful in a part that required her to be nice and beautiful, while two actors—Hayward and Aherne—unchivalrously acted themselves into the major share of attention. We Madeleine-for-Queen members haven't read the DeMille script, so we don't know that Madeleine is to be just a beauteous backdrop, but if that's how it is, we'll be ready with our scalping knives.

MISSISSIPPI REBUILDS ITS PINE FORESTS

CCC Assists In Planting of 15,000,000 Trees In Five Years.

(By Associated Press)

JACKSON, Miss. — Looking across the snaggled stumps and fire-scarred earth any morning of the working week, one may see a line of men in blue, rhythmically taking two steps forward, pausing a few seconds, and stepping forward again in never ceasing routine.

It is the United States forest service at work, planting 15,000,000 trees across the wasted face of Mississippi.

The Mississippi stand of long leaf yellow pine was once known to botanists as the "cleanest" in the world. It grew rapidly, produced fine wood, and stretched mile upon mile almost completely free of other growths. Before 1875 it was scarcely touched. By 1930 it was gone. Only mounds of sawdust remained where mill towns had flourished.

In 1932 the Mississippi legislature passed an enabling act to authorize the state to cooperate with the United States forest service. By 1935 the service had organized its program and the first trees were being planted.

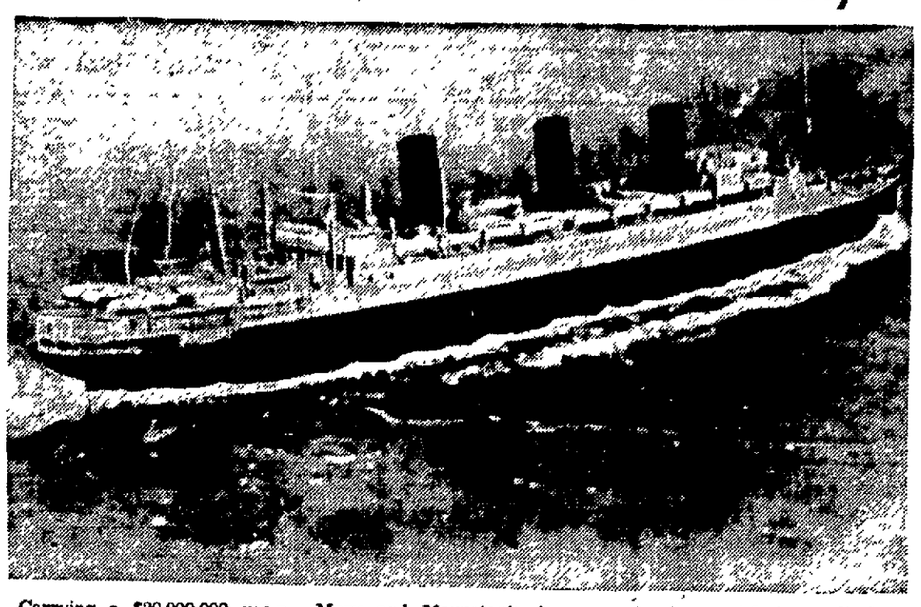
In five years the service has planted more than 90,000,000 trees. This year's quota is 15,000,000. Set six feet apart, they would form an orchard 60 feet wide from the Gulf of Mexico to Lake Michigan. It takes 40 years to grow a forest. In many places trees are five years along the way.

The service protects five national forests in the state, 2,559,670 of the state's 17,000,000 acres. Most of these protected areas are being purchased gradually by the government.

SLOW SERVICE

VANCOUVER, B. C. — (INS) — A parcel and fifty letters sent airmail were delivered in Vancouver a year and two months late. They were in a pouch that fell out of airplane near Helena, Mont., in December, 1938, and were forwarded when a Helena resident stumbled over the pouch in a vacant lot.

Ile de France Leaves N. Y. for War Duty



Carrying a $20,000,000 war cargo, the largest ever taken from New York by a single vessel, the luxury liner Ile de France departed from Manhattan to join Great Britain's Queen Mary and Mauretania in war service as a troop transport. Painted in somber black and gray, the 43,000-ton liner headed for Halifax where she was to discharge her cargo of American bombers and fast pursuit planes, oil, copper, and other war materials. Two of the huge bombers may be seen on her aft deck in this picture taken as she left her dock.

Walking Aid to Longevity Says Aged Professor

BOSTON—(INS)—Keep the heart exercised by rapid walking and use tobacco and alcoholic drinks in moderation—if you want to reach a ripe old age.

The advice comes from William Gilbert Anderson, 80-year-old head of the department of physical education at Yale university for 40 years.

It's very important today to keep the heart in shape because so many are dropping off that way," Anderson advised.

"When one is young he should walk up and down stairs rapidly and those who are older should walk rapidly. That keeps the heart strong and active.

Prof. Anderson, who is a professor emeritus of Yale and who received the degree of Doctor of Health from Harvard university in 1912, founded the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation 43 years ago.

POILU HAS NEW PLUS 4 OUTFIT

PARIS—(INS)—The French "poilu" has a new uniform—pleated "plus fours" and linen waterproof leggings. The regulation army jacket is unchanged.

Because the old style puttees obstructed the blood circulation in soldiers' legs, the army held a styling competition for a new type uniform. The winning design consists of long brown trousers so pleated that they are adaptable to folding beneath the new shin-length linen leggings.

A recent "Army styling show" held by the ministry showed the smartness and apparent comfort of the new equipment. The troops are reported well pleased with the idea of abolishing the much-disliked puttee.

The curiosity of others enables some men to make a good living.

DROUGHT HITS OPERATIONS OF OHIO FARMERS

Vegetable Growers Considering Installation of Overhead Irrigation Systems.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Continued droughts in Ohio may force vegetable farmers in the state to adopt overhead irrigation systems similar to the experimental one maintained by the Ohio State university department of horticulture.

The irrigation system, according to reports by Dr. Howard D. Brown, vegetable gardening specialist, saved 23 acres of experimental crops during the drought last fall.

On one five-acre plot Chippewa and Cobbler potatoes were planted. The results, Brown said, were:

1. Non-irrigated cobblers yielded 41 to 58 bushels per acre, while the yield on the irrigated plot was 340 bushels per acre.

2. The yield on the irrigated Chippewa plot was 266 bushels, while non-irrigated plots produced from 31 to 86 bushels per acre.

"Potatoes grown on non-irrigated land were misshapen, only 47 per cent graded U. S. No. 1 and they had less than 4.5 tubers per plant," Brown reported.

"Those plentifully supplied with water were well-shaped, 85 per cent graded U. S. No. 1 and the average of tubers per plant has six."

The irrigation system consisted of 14,000 feet of lateral pipes equipped with nozzles. Water was pumped from a 12-inch well which was 175 feet deep, furnishing 300 gallons per minute. The power was furnished by a 30-horsepower motor.

BACK AGAIN

Middy Blouse Returns to England First Time Since 1900's.

LONDON—(U.P.)—Guess who's back again? The old middy blouse. Remember?

Not since the early 1900s, when American women brought this fashion to England, has anything like a middy been worn here.

The new middy is cut straight and worn over a skirt without a belt. The square sailor collars are braided.

A new spring "three-piece" ensemble, including a white middy blouse with blue braiding and scarlet silk lanyard, navy skirt and reefer jacket, is being shown. A red sailor hat with navy and white ribbon provides the finishing touch.

Brass buttons are worn on the jacket, which has high revers and plenty of pockets.

The skirt is short and flared.

CHAPTER XXXII

But he had been afraid. He could acknowledge that to himself now. He had been afraid to live in a world of work and worry and poverty, and that was just the type of world it would have been had he married her then. With all respect to his dead mother, he felt she had not been truthful when she told him she would never have disinherited him. Oh, she thought she was telling him the truth when she told him that, but that was because she was weak and dying. Alive, she would have been as merciless as she had threatened to be.

Yes, he had indeed been a spineless fool, unworthy of any girl's love. But that was over now. Somehow, ever since his mother's death he had had the feeling of being unafraid of anything life could offer. He had changed; peculiarly enough, he had matured. But—it was too late. Or—was it? Did he still have a chance to win Elaine back? He pounded his fist anxiously on the rosewood table. He had to win her back. Life without Elaine wouldn't be life; it would be hell!

* * *

The chauffeur appeared in the door carrying the suitcases and coughed to attract Eric's attention.

"We won't have much time to catch the plane, Mr. Reardon," he said apprehensively. "We'll have to hurry."

"Of course." Eric snuffed out his cigaret, followed the chauffeur from the house and got into the big limousine. He glanced back once at the house as the car sped down the blue-graveled driveway. In a window on the second floor he could see Helen's golden head at the curtains. He smiled over the thoughts that must be running through her brain. Yet, oddly enough, he knew she was thinking along the same lines as he. She was wondering too if, when he returned, Elaine would be with him.

She would be. She had to be. A stern light burned in Eric's eyes. He had gone to New York for her once before, a horrible caricature of a man. He was going again, but this time a man who knew what he wanted and who was determined to get it.

It was good to be out on the water. It was good to stand in the bow of the big ferryboat and feel a crisp, salt breeze whip at her tingling cheeks. It was good to stand with her eyes skyward and watch the first feeble pink rays of the rising sun dissipate the grey murkiness of night; but above all, it was good to be away from the apartment, far, far away from the excitement of preparing for her wedding and immediate departure from New York.

Elaine sighed appreciatively as she leaned against the rail of the boat and looked outacross the still waters of Upper New York Bay. All about her was the peace and quiet she had been seeking. Her teeth flashed in a pleased smile. She was glad, she had decided to leave the apartment and Jane and Betty and Clara and the lovelorn Jack to take this short voyage to Staten Island and back.

Out here she could think. What mattered the occasional cry of a hungry gull as it swooped eagerly down towards the slate-grey waters; what mattered the occasional hoot of a tugboat's deep-throated whistle? Compared with the excitement and chattering voices back in the apartment these noises simply did not exist. Yes, out here she could think.

And she needed to do that badly. This afternoon, at one o'clock, she and Melvyn would stand before the minister in the Little Church Around the Corner and be made man and wife. Proposed to yesterday and married today!

Proposed to yesterday and married today. Elaine could hardly bring herself to a realization that before the day was over she would be Melvyn Stuart's wife and would leave hurriedly with him for China. Were it not for the fact that every day of her life since the fateful automobile crash had been filled with one surprise after another she knew she would have been completely dumbfounded by this rapid succession of events. As it was, she had become terribly confused. It was peculiar, the effect a telegram could have upon a person's life.

Yesterday evening the messenger boy had called at the house with a telegram for Melvin. He was in the apartment when the messenger arrived. He tore open the envelope and read the brief words, and then turned quietly to her and asked: "Elaine, will you marry me tomorrow? The hospital is in urgent need of a surgeon and they've asked me to sail for China at once."

She remembered she had looked at him for a moment, not trusting herself to speak, conscious only that she was standing at the crossroads of her life: that her answer, if in the affirmative, would bid her to him forever. After a silence during which there was this single thought she had said yes. That was all. There had been no exchange of sweet nothings as tradition decreed, there had been no kiss, nothing except her yes and Melvyn's preoccupied "Very well."

Tomorrow she would be in California, tomorrow night she would be aboard a steamer en route to China. To the captain and the passengers on board she would be known as Mrs. Melvyn Stuart, the pretty young wife of an up-and-doing young surgeon. And tomorrow, and for the rest of the days of her life she would be known by that name. Mrs. Melvyn Stuart. When, in her heart, she had been and always would be Mrs. Eric Reardon!

But no. She mustn't think of things like that. She had promised to make Melvyn a good wife; she must put all thoughts of Eric completely out of her mind. Melvyn hadn't forced her to consent to marry him. She had reasoned everything out very carefully before she told him she would. And there hadn't been so much reasoning to do. Eric had not wanted her, Melvyn had; Eric had not needed her, Melvyn had. It was as simple as that, and if she began to mourn over the "What might have been" she—she gasped as the ferryboat glided towards a row of piles and planks which jutted out from the pier. Her eyes grew round with fright and her body tensed for a crash as the nose of the boat swung directly toward it. They—they were going to crash.

A stout, heavily tanned, partially bald man who stood beside her at the rail grinned as the boat struck against the water-greened wall. "Is this your first trip on a ferryboat?" he asked amiably.

Elaine nodded her head, relieved to see the wall sag far to one side as the boat struck up against it.

"The boat must hit it," the fat man told her in a friendly way. "You see, those walls on either side serve first to break the current and form a patch of smooth water, and secondly, by inching along the wall the boat is brought into a perfect position to tie up to the pier."

With a cheerful little nod he walked off the boat and onto the pier and as Elaine watched him waddle away she became suddenly aware that the ride across the bay to Staten Island had worked wonders with her. By the time she was back in Manhattan she felt calm, not quite so moody, not quite as nervous; not eager, of course, but entirely willing to keep her promise to Melvyn.

Jane did not attempt to conceal her excitement and worry when Elaine strolled nonchalantly into the apartment. "Who ever heard of such a thing!" she exclaimed. "Here you are going to be married today, you have a thousand and one things to do and—and you go—where did you go, anyway?"

Elaine took off her hat and threw it carelessly upon the table. "I went for a ferryboat ride," she told Jane coolly. She eyed her roommate and smiled. "Gracious, you'd think I committed a crime or something. I only felt a little nervous and I wanted to be alone for a while. Besides, I have plenty of time."

"And how!" Clara chimed in. "Your bridegroom is going to be late. He has an operation to perform over at the hospital."

Betty was quite disgusted and made no effort to conceal this. She sniffed as she turned to face Jack O'Malley who sat coatless on a chair beside the window. "That's the trouble with you men," she said cuttingly. "You're always late. Gosh, if I'm ever fool enough to wait for any man I hope some one shoots me—or something!"

"I will not waste me time arguin' about such a thing," Jack stated loftily. "You know very well that it is the colleens who are always late."

"You'll have to settle that between yourselves," Jane told them as she grasped Elaine's arm and pulled her toward the door. "Elaine has to dress. Melvyn's liable to come bursting in any minute now and there won't be much time to spare."

Her face had a worried, flustered look as she closed the bedroom door. "Gosh, he should be coming soon! Your plane leaves at one-thirty. Why in heaven's name didn't he let some one else perform that operation?"

Elaine shrugged her shoulders and sat down on the bed, kicking off her shoes. "Perhaps it's a special patient. Don't worry, Jane, he'll be coming soon enough."

The dreary way in which she spoke these words drew a frown across Jane's face and she walked slowly over to the bed, eyes questioning. For a moment she stared down at Elaine, a curious red flush on her cheeks. "Elaine," she asked with an embarrassed air, "are—are you really in love with Melvyn? Oh, I know I'm silly to ask that, but you know, ever since you said you'd marry Mel you've been acting strangely, almost as though you were going to marry him against your will."

She should pretend to be angry. She should reprimand Jane for even harboring such a thought. It was expected of her, it was expected of any woman who professes to be in love, Elaine glanced up, forcing an angry gleam into her eyes, and somehow hated herself for being such a hypocrite.

"Of course I love Melvyn," she told Jane evenly. "If I didn't I certainly wouldn't be marrying him, would I?"

Jane shook her head slowly. "No, I guess you wouldn't." She smiled self-consciously. "I'm a fool. I was just worried about it, that's all. I was wondering if you were still in love with Eric and were marrying Melvyn simply because Eric went back home to California. Elaine, would you marry Melvyn even though you found out that Eric had returned to New York and that he still loved you?"

Elaine gazed intently at Jane's eager face. She had the feeling that more lay beneath the surface of the question than was obvious. Was Jane trying to trap her into admitting she still loved Eric? Was she testing her? But of course not. Jane had been too eager for her to marry Melvyn to harbor any doubts now concerning the genuineness of her love for him.

She waited until she had slipped her dress over her head before replying. "Of course I would still marry Melvyn. "But—but what ever made you ask such a question?

Jane sighed and turned to toy restlessly with the suitcase handle. "Eric is here in New York, Elaine. He arrived by plane this morning and came over here to see you. He'll be back shortly."

Eric in New York? But—but that couldn't be true! He had left her, he had returned to California and his mother and was not going to have anything more to do with her. Jane was lying, was trying to make sure that she was really in love with Melvyn. She stared at her roommate's pale face, tried to read the thoughts behind her curtained eyes—and then—suddenly—as her heart began a mad pounding, she knew it was true. Eric had returned to her. He had come back to New York; he had left his mother; he had returned to make her his bride.
